Valley GOP leaders support Reagan's entry

Ronald Reagan's entry into the Presidential race drew strong support, but no personal endorsements from area Republican leaders.

Those contacted said the former California governor's declaration that he will seek the party's nomination would serve to stimulate interest in the primary election.

Assemblyman William Lancaster, R-62nd Dist., said he was impressed by the job that Regan did while governor and believed his entering the Presidential race would bring about a "thorough discussion" of the issues.

"I feel the Republican Party is blessed to have two fine candidates running for this office," he added.

Lancaster said Reagan has expressed a concern to carry a message on what government is costing the American people.

The Covina lawmaker said he has not yet made a decision on which of the two Republican candidates he will support. "I am familiar with both President Ford's and Reagan's records. I plan to take a 'wait and see' attitude."

Lancaster reported he had heard rumors of Reagan's intention to announce, but received no official notification. He also said he hadn't been contacted by any of Reagan's supporters seeking an endorsement "at this time."

Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire, former chairman of the 65th Assembly District's Republican Central Committee and long active in the Republican Party, described Reagan as a "very formidable candidate."

He based this assessment on Reagan's record as governor and also "his popularity which has never waned."

Lepire said Reagan "comes through like motherhood and apple pie" on his television appearances. The mayor said he believed Reagan's entry into the race would be a lift to the Republican Party.

He emphasized, however, that this did not mean he was complaining about Gerald Ford as President. "He has maintained dignity of office."

Lepire believes that most Republicans will "wait and see" before making a decision on which candidate to support.

State Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-19th Dist., said Reagan's entry should serve to strengthen the Republican Party. "Conflict in the party is like exercising the muscles. It serves to add strength if properly done."

While noting he was more in philosophical agreement with Reagan than Ford, Richardson said he has not yet made a commitment on which candidate to support.

The senator said Reagan leaves no doubts on where he stands on the issues. "He is very articulate. He has an enormous audience. He is very popular."

Rep. John Rousselot, R-26th Dist., said he had a good relationship with both Ford and Reagan and believed either would make a good candidate.

He reported, however, that he wouldn't endorse either candidate until after the primary election. "We are blessed to have both Reagan and Ford in the Republican Party," he said.

Roy Day, long active in the Republican Party, said Reagan has the "best shot" for winning the Presidential nomination. "He has leadership ability, is a good speaker and would relate better to the public than Ford."

Day believes, however, that Reagan's conservative views may hinder him in crossing the political party lines and reaching the "broad spectrum" of American people.

Day said Ford is "up against" a situation where members of Congress are running for reelection.

Assemblyman William Campbell, R-64th Dist., said he believes an open primary is good for the part and the political system. "By having Ford and Reagan discuss their viewpoints, this will be good for the country."

Campbell said he had been contacted by representatives of both candidates, but will not support either until after the primary election.

Reagan's campaign security tightened

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Ronald Reagan, undaunted by a toy-gun incident in Miami, fielded questions about some of his favorite topics from a New Hampshire audience and then completed his first day of presidential campaigning with a 30-minute autograph session.

Security was tight as Secret Service agents checked handbags and tape recorders of the more than 900 persons entering the convention hall in Bedford, N.H., where the former Hollywood actor and California governor participated in what campaign aides called a "Citizen's Press Conference."

Reagan remained overnight in New Hampshire, which has the nation's first primary Feb. 24. He was to fly to Charlotte, N.C., and then on to Chicago and Los Angeles today, ending his first campaign swing after announcing formally Thursday his challenge to President Ford for the GOP nomination.

Reagan flew to New Hampshire from Miami, where he encountered a man wielding a plastic toy pistol as he shook hands after the first rally of his campaign. The man, identified as Michael Lance Carvin, 20, of Pompano, Fla., was grabbed by Secret Service agents and Reagan was hustled away.

Bob Newbrand, special agent in charge of the Miami area Secret Service office, said Carvin was charged with intimidating a presidential candidate and with assaulting a federal officer.

"I just thought someone had fallen down. It seems the man had pulled out a toy gun," Reagan said at a news conference later.

He made no mention of the incident after he arrived in New Hampshire, but security was especially tight. Reagan was flanked by six Secret Service agents as he and his wife entered the convention hall.

The 64-year-old Reagan looked tired and was a bit hoarse as he answered questions from the New Hampshire audience on such issues as unemployment, defense spending, detente, abortion, welfare reform, gun control, busing and foreign aid.

Reagan said he has "ruled out" running for President under a third party ticket because, he said, "that winds up dividing people of similar philosophies and then the people who you're trying to beat slip in just under the wire."

He said here that the Republicans must "raise the banner and put on the banner what we honestly believe ... and that we're not going to water it down for this group or that group."

Reagan criticized the new campaign financing laws as "evil laws and an infringement on the rights of the people" and the question was not the amounts but "accountability."

"I never have been able to figure out why big Republican contributors are fat cats and big Democrat contributors are public spirited philantropists," he said.

On welfare, he said it should be taken away from the federal government and placed under the control of the states "because you can't make rules from 3,000 miles away."

He called for more defense spending, saying the Soviet Union is outspending the United States and "to be second best militarily is to be last."

Despite the earlier toy-gun episode, Reagan reaffirmed his opposition to gun control, declaring "I like guns too." But he called for strong penalties for crimes committed with a gun.

FOG TRIGGERS 34-VEHICLE PILEUP

Moynihan draws U.N. fire from both friends and foes

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Daniel Patrick Moynihan is living up to his promise to talk back to America's critics at the United Nations. But some of America's friends as well as its foes don't like it.

After four months as the chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, the former Harvard professor, adviser to President Nixon and ambassador to India has become the most controversial American delegate in years as a result of his frequent, outspoken statements.

He has generated more fan mail from Americans than most of his predecessors. He has also generated an undercurrent of criticism that he is violating an old rule that the most effective diplomacy is quiet diplomacy.

It started among delegates usually hostile to the United States. Some West European diplomats joined in during the losing battle to kill the Arab-Communist resolution terming Zionism a form of racism.

One criticism was that Moynihan was both undiplomatic and counterproductive in reminding the General Assembly that most of its member nations are dictatorships and that Congress may retaliate when the United States doesn't get its way.

Whatever else the United Nations is, "it is not the O.K.Corral, and I am hardly Wyatt Earp," British Ambassador Ivor Richard said in a speech this week to the directors of the United Nations Association of the United States.

"... Certainly I do not see it as a confrontational arena in which to 'take on' those countries whose political systems and ideologies are different from mine. I spend a lot of time preventing rows at the U.N., not looking for them.

"My function is to use the United Nations, not to purge it, particularly if ... the chances are I would end up by encouraging my enemies, irritating my friends and isolating my country."

Some West Europeans said Moynihan's strong statements about totalitarian governments were overdue. But one West European said during the Zionism fight, "We might be able to stop the resolution if Moynihan would keep quiet."

Moynihan says diplomacy in the spotlight of the United Nations is unlike behind-scenes, day-to-day diplomacy, and anti-American oratory must be answered. He wrote in a magazine article last March, before his appointment, "it is time . . . the American spokesman came to be feared for the truths he might tell."

S.B. Co. told to pay or lose RTD services

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

San Bernardino County must pay for regional transit lines within its boundaries or lose bus lines operated now by the Southern California Rapid Transit District.

An RTD pullout would terminate service to San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland, the California Institution for Men and California Institution for Women in Chino, to other communities within the county and from points in the West End to Ontario International Airport.

An RTD bus would continue to stop at the Ontario International Airport, because it services Los Angeles County residents. It is likely that West End residents at the airport could travel to Los Angeles, but not to locations within San Bernardino County.

Wes McDaniel, executive director of the San Bernardino Associated Governments (SANBAG), the transit planning agency for San Bernardino County, made this announcement at a lengthy Thursday meeting of the West Valley Transit Service Authority.

The announcement was not unexpected, but the immediacy of the problem was emphasized.

"They (RTD officials) claim service could stop any day if we didn't fall into line," McDaniel said. "We will send them a letter, indicating negotiations will begin and asking for a 30 to 60-day delay in stopping service."

The SANBAG executive met with RTD officials prior to the West End meeting. He pointed out that the meeting provided new information and clarified what SANBAG and county personnel already knew.

No cost of continued service has been suggested.

San Bernardino County has enjoyed regional service from RTD for years without contributing any funds to RTD operations, McDaniel reminded the WVTSA board. He pointed out that it could be to the advantage of the respective transit entities within the county to consider contracting with RTD for continued service.

Several of the RTD recommendations are included within the long range projections of West End transit planning, including pulling the line that goes all the way through to Riverside off city streets, particularly Holt Boulevard, and keeping it on the San Bernardino Freeway as a freeway flier.

The Pomona bus terminal, reported McDaniel, will be closed by RTD now that Greyhound Bus Lines have relocated to Indian Hill Boulevard in Claremont, south of the freeway. RTD may also take out the park and ride service in Pomona at the old helioport site.

Although considering relocating a terminal at the Indian Hill Village in Pomona, said McDaniel, RTD officials agreed that the Montclair Plaza "is the most logical terminal for the area" because of its size and proximity to the freeway. "The plaza could become a focal point for our local service and their service," McDaniel added.

With this in mind, WVTSA could re-examine the extension of Route 14 from San Bernardino and run it over to the Montclair Plaza rather than Indian Hill Village, he noted.

The West End board wants buses running on an hourly frequency for six days and 10 hours on Sunday. RTD, on the other hand, wants to run 20 hours each day.

"West Valley may be willing to pay for 13 hours. If they chose to run the line 20 hours, fine. RTD has indicated some agreement to this," said McDaniel.

Claremont Mayor Bertye Smith commented, "It is essential that we have some transportation across the county line. I think we should see how much they want and negotiate with them."

McDaniel said RTD has estimated a cost of $25,000 for 13 hours on the 60G line that serves San Antonio Community Hospital and stops along Arrow Highway in Upland before going through the Claremont Colleges area, northern Claremont and on to Los Angeles.

Upland Mayor Abner Haldeman pointed out that there are "a lot of questions that haven't been answered in this. This presentation has opened a Pandora's box and it should be opened. But this board cannot turn around and authorize $25,000 without ironing out problems at the technical committee level."

He then moved for the "challenge" to be referred to the technical committee of WVTSA. The motion was unanimously accepted.

McDaniel will present the information to the SANBAG executive board at its Dec. 3 meeting.

16 inches of snow blankets Minnesota

By The Associated Press

Snow and high winds continued to batter the upper Midwest today as the Central Plains states dug out from the season's first blizzard.

Up to 16 inches of heavy, wet snow covered sections of Minnesota. The Nebraska State Patrol urged motorists to stay off Interstate Highway 80. The jail in Springfield, Colo., housed stranded motorists for the second night.

The storm swept out of eastern Colorado on Thursday into Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa. It spread blizzard conditions into the Dakotas, Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin before days end.

Schools were closed, highways blocked, airline flights canceled and power outages were reported throughout the region. The Kansas Highway Patrol reported that a farmer trapped in a field in his tractor for 10 hours was rescued unharmed.

At least three deaths were attributed to the storm. A truck driver was killed when his tractor-trailer jackknifed on a Nebraska highway. Two men in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area died, apparently of heart attacks, while shoveling snow.

South Dakota authorities were still searching for an Ethan, S.D., woman, Joyce Negebauer, whose abandoned truck was found on U.S. Highway 289. One man was also reported missing in Colorado.

The National Weather Service said a deep low pressure area over southwestern Iowa caused the storm that ended an extra-long Indian summer in the Midwest.

Heavy snow was still falling today in Minnesota, Wisconsin and upper Michigan. The weather service said there were flurries as far south to northern Arkansas and east to the eastern end of Lake Erie.

Drifts up to 13 feet were reported on Interstate 80 in Nebraska as snow plows resumed digging out today. Winds up 70 miles per hour raked the state Thursday.

Most sections of Interstate Highway 70 in Kansas were opened today, despite subfreezing overnight temperatures. In South Dakota, however, there was still no travel on Interstate Highway 90.

Although the storm blasted the eastern slope of the Rockies, little snow fell further into the mountains. A spokesman in Vail, Colo., said the famous ski resort received little snow from the storm and ski facility operators were worried about a lack of snow.

Mt. Etna erupts

CATANIA, Sicily (AP) — Mt. Etna, Europe's highest and most active volcano, erupted today, sending a river of flaming lava down its uninhabited northern slope.

Scientists reported that the river of lava, about 50 yards wide, flowed 1.2 miles after the eruption but was still far away from any cultivated and populated area.

Students in Pomona's public high schools soon may be able to leave their classrooms at 16 if they pass state high school proficiency examinations.

Tests will be administered for the first time at Pomona, Ganesha, Garey and Park Avenue high schools on Dec. 20.

Those wishing to take the examinations must complete application forms now available at the schools and have them signed by either a counselor or principal by Nov. 28.

A second examination is scheduled for March 27. Applications for this session must be completed by March 5.

Senate Bill 1112 allowing this move was signed into law in 1972. However, rules and guidelines for the proficiency examination have just been established by the state Department of Education.

Acting schools Supt. Sidney G. Moses said he expects it will have "very little impact" on Pomona's schools "because we are having more and more students stay in high school the full four years, with even fewer than in past years graduating midterm."

Statewide it is expected an estimated 670,000 students could be involved in the testing. Each student who takes the test will be charged a $10 examination fee.

Each student who passes the examination will be allowed to leave secondary school with parental consent.

These students will be accepted into community or junior colleges.

Students who leave high school on the basis of the Certificate of Proficiency they receive in lieu of a graduation diploma may return at any time without prejudice.

State politicians size up campaigner Reagan: tough

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A leader of President Ford's California campaign, Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger, says Ronald Reagan "is an attractive and formidible candidate," but that Ford will beat Reagan next year.

But former Gov. Edmund G. "Pat" Brown — who was defeated by Reagan by 1 million votes in 1966 — says he knows how effective a campaigner Reagan can be. Brown rates Ford as the underdog.

Those were some of the varied reactions from California political leaders to the former governor's announcement Thursday that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for president.

Former San Francisco Mayor George Christopher, a Republican defeated by Reagan in the 1966 gubernatorial primary, said he can't support either Reagan or Ford next year.

"I could well support a good Democrat," Christopher said in a telephone interview.

California political leaders of both parties predicted Reagan will be a tough opponent for Ford. Most Democrats, including Brown, were critical of Reagan, as were some Republicans.

Christopher, who lost to the former actor in his first political campaign, said Reagan is "more rhetoric than substance, and a lot of beautiful cliches that sound good...I wonder if this is what the Republican party needs."

But Christopher said he can't support Ford either. "I consider Mr. Ford inept, both in rhetoric and management.... I could well support a good Democrat."

Both Reagan's friends and foes in California predicted a close race with Reagan's campaigning skills overcoming much of Ford's advantage as the incumbent. Leaders of both parties emphasized Reagan's skill as a speaker and campaigner.

Younger, the only Republican now holding statewide office in California, said of Reagan: "I am disappointed he is going to run."

Younger added: "I think that Ford will win the nomination, but he will have a more difficult time with opposition."

But state Sen. Dennis Carpenter, co-chairman with Younger of Ford's California campaign, said he welcomed "a good primary between two good candidates. Our party needs a shot in the arm. In this context, it will be helpful. I think the President will win," he added.

Most California Republican leaders still are officially neutral in the Reagan-Ford contest, but friendly to Reagan.

"He represents a viewpoint of concern about the way in which the federal government is intruding in the lives of citizens," said George Deukmejian, GOP floor leader in the state Senate.

"He will be articulating that viewpoint probably better than any other political leader in the country."

Brown, the Democratic incumbent in 1966, lost to Reagan by 1 million votes despite a 15 per cent Democratic registration edge.

He said of Reagan: "I think he's a very serious threat to Gerald Ford. I think Ronald Reagan should be the favorite despite Ford's incumbency. Reagan is a very effective campaigner, as I discovered."

Brown continued: "He's an effective speaker. His views are simplistic, and they can be understood by the people."

Brown added that he considers Reagan "a very sincere man and a very honest man. But I think his election as president would be very tragic."

"No one will ever comprehend the hurt he inflicted on the people of California — on the blind, the disabled, the mentally retarded. He doesn't understand government or the effect of his actions," Brown said.

Democrat James Mills, president pro tem of the state Senate and a bitter Reagan foe, said Reagan is a formidable campaigner and "pragmatic to a fault."

"I think he's a very strong candidate. He is the most consumate politician I have ever dealt with," Mills said. "Ronald Reagan will say whatever he thinks he needs to say, responsible or irresponsible, to accomplish his ends."

State Republican party chairman Paule Haerle, a former Reagan appointee who has endorsed Ford, said Reagan's candidacy can only cause conflict and harm the GOP in California. He predicted a Ford victory nationally and in California.

Father sues Krishna sect; claims son brainwashed, kept from him

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Chicago teacher who claims he has been beaten and his 12-year-old son kept from him by the Hare Krishna sect has sued the International Society for Krishna Consciousness for $7.6 million.

The Superior Court suit filed Thursday by Jerome Charles Yanoff charges the society with assault and interference with a parental relationship.

According to the suit, Yanoff maintains he was beaten by members of the society last Aug. 31 when he attempted to find his son at the Culver City headquarters.

The boy has been under Yanoff's care in Chicago since 1972. In 1969, Yanoff divorced the boy's mother, Karen Faith Yanoff Wilson, who is a member of the Hare Krishna movement.

The boy came here to spend the summer with his mother, but, Yanoff claims, the boy never returned. The boy has been improperly fed and cared for, the suit claims, and has been forced to beg on the street to support the order.

The Krishnas "have, by means of hypnotic and brainwashing techniques, turned the minor child against his own (Jewish) faith," the suit alleges.

Yanoff's lawyer, Robert Brock, said he has obtained a warrant for sheriff's deputies to pick up the boy. A habeas corpus hearing is scheduled for next Tuesday.

Yanoff is asking $100,000 in general damages and $500,000 in punitive damages concerning the assault complaint, and $2 million in general damages and $5 million punitive damages for the charge of interfering in the parental relationship.

In the suit, Yanoff said said the large punitive damages are necessary.

"I'm patriotic," explained Barbara Auxier of 4051 Olive St., Chino.

That's the reason her nephew sent her a flag that had been flown over the U.S. Capitol Building in Washington, D.C., as a present for her birthday on Nov. 12.

Harding is the son of Mrs. Auxier's sister, Edith Harding of Washington, D.C., who has spent the past six months visiting at Mrs. Auxier's home.

Mrs. Auxier said the flag measures eight by five feet and is "beautiful."

"I'm not really a flag waver," she said, "but I'll wave this one every holiday on my front porch."

Ford hits low in state poll

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — President Ford's job performance rating by Californians has reached the lowest level since he took office, the California Poll reports.

While Ford's rating continues to decline, the public regard for Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. is at an unprecedented high, Mervin D. Field said in releasing his latest poll of Californians today.

In the poll, 1,164 adults were asked whether they thought Ford, Brown and California's two senators were doing a good, fair or poor job.

Twenty-one per cent rated Ford's performance "good," 52 per cent "fair" and 25 per cent "poor," with 2 per cent expressing no opinion.

Fifty per cent of those polled said Brown was doing a good job, 34 per cent "fair" and 7 per cent "poor." Nine per cent gave no opinion.

Sen. Alan Cranston received a more favorable rating than Sen. John Tunney, who is seeking re-election in 1976. Both are Democrats.

Cranston, who won re-election by a landslide majority in 1974, received ratings of 29 per cent for "good," 31 per cent for "fair," 11 per cent "poor" and 29 per cent "no opinion."

Tunney's performance was viewed as "good" by 20 per cent, "fair" by 36 per cent and "poor" by 20 per cent, with 25 per cent giving no opinion.

Ford's highest rating in the California Poll was in October 1974, when 33 per cent of those polled said they thought he was doing a good job and 43 per cent a fair job.

Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan announced Thursday that he was seeking to win the Republican party's 1976 presidential nomination over Ford.

The poll was taken from Nov. 1 through Nov. 8, with face-to-face interviews of 694 Democrats, 354 Republicans and 116 persons classified as "other," Field said.

S.B. County will open new museum

The new San Bernardino County Museum will open Saturday in Redlands amid entertainment, demonstrations and exhibits.

The program begins with a ribbon cutting ceremony at 10:45 a.m. Visitors will be greeted by county Supervisor Dennis Hansberger and Mayor Jack Cummings of Redlands.

Demonstrations will be held during the day on weaving, primative spinning techniques, ceramics and pottery crafts. In addition, the Paradise Valley Model A Ford Club will have cars on display.

The Fort Mojave Indian Tribal Band will provide music during the opening program and Indians from the San Manuel Reservation will sell food during the day.

The three-level museum is located at 2024 Orange Tree Lane which is north of Interstate 10 and east of California Street.

The museum has 45,000 square feet of floor space and occupies a five-acre site. Exhibits will include the world's largest collection of bird eggs, mounted birds, North American mammals, Indian exhibits, mining and industrial equipment and a World War II tank.

4 in $630 million libel suit held to be 'public figures'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Superior Court judge has ruled four men suing Penthouse magazine in a $630 million libel action are "public figures" and must prove malice by the defendants to collect.

The four principal owners of the Rancho La Costa development near San Clemente, topic of a Penthouse article entitled "La Costa: The Hundred-Million-Dollar Resort with Criminal Clientele," charge the magazine and authors Lowell Bergman and Jeff Garth defamed them by linking their names with organized crime.

"The evidence is overwhelming that the corporate plaintiff, La Costa, and the individual plaintiffs are public figures, and that the La Costa story is a matter of general or public interest," said Judge Thomas W. LeSage in his ruling Thursday.

Defense attorney Alan R. Gelb said he soon will file a motion for summary judgment in the case that would, if granted, preclude the necessity of a trial.

Morris B. "Moe" Dalitz, 76, former owner of the Desert Inn in Las Vegas, identified by the Kefauver crime committee in the 1950s as an organized crime figure, was joined in filing the suit by Allard Roen, 56, a partner in Dalitz' Las Vegas gambling enterprises and a central figure in the United Chemical and Dye stock fraud scandal in New York; Mervyn Adelson, 46, and Irwin Molasky, 48, two other Dalitz associates in the Rancho La Costa resort who are also active in the entertainment business.

"The court's decision is merely a preliminary one, holding that the plaintiffs are public figures. It does not excuse the libels nor does it hold that any of the accusations against plaintiffs are true or justified," Louis Nizer, the attorney for the plaintiffs, said afterwards in a statement from his New York office.

He added the decision "merely puts an additional burden on the plaintiffs to establish actual malice."

Gelb replied outside the courtroom that "the court has repudiated the most serious attack on freedom of the press since former President (Richard M.) Nixon attacked the press during the Watergate investigation."

And Judge LeSage emphasized in his ruling, "the case before the court, more than any other case brought to its attention, merits a positive reaffirmation of the constitutional right of freedom of the press."

The article described the 5,600-acre Rancho La Costa hotel and real estate development in northern San Diego County as a "watering hole" for organized crime figures and said that it had been financed with loans made on a questionable basis from a Teamsters Union pension fund.

Punishment for assassination plots pending

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Department officials are still weighing whether to bring charges against those involved in the assassination plots described by the Senate intelligence committee.

Department officials are studying a series of statutes for possible use in any prosecution, including a cover-up charge. A spokesman says that Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi either will seek indictments or publicly explain why not in a report on his department's investigation into all categories of alleged CIA wrongdoing.

In its 346-page report made public Thursday, the committee said U.S. officials had instigated at least eight assassination plots against Cuba's Fidel Castro and had launched another scheme to kill Congolese leader Patrice Lumumba. The panel also described the U.S. government as implicated in the killing of Dominican dictator Rafael Trujillo.

Of the nine foreign leaders mentioned in the report, only Fidel Castro and his brother Raul are still alive.

But the committee said, "No foreign leaders were killed as a result of assassination plots initiated by officials of the United States."

Neither President Ford nor the CIA commented on the report.

The panel noted with surprise that "there is presently no statute making it a crime to assassinate a foreign official outside the United States" and urged Congress to enact such a law.

Its report told of a CIA official at the agency's old Washington headquarters who was asked to develop plans to kill Lumumba in 1960 and raised the prospect "that conspiracy to commit murder being done in the District of Columbia might be in violation of federal law."

A second official, Richard Bissell, then head of the agency's clandestine services, "airily dismissed" the prospect, according to evidence submitted to the committee.

Justice Department officials say they are examining the possibility of prosecutions based on any cover-up of the assassination plots. To bring such a charge they would first have to decide that a crime had been committed.

In considering that decision, the law which Justice Department officials are examining most closely makes it a felony to instigate, support or take part in "any military or naval expedition or enterprise" against leaders of a foreign country with which the United States is at peace.

Department officials say the key legal question in determining whether that law was violated is the definition of a military enterprise.

Prosecution directly under this law would be limited to those acts committed within the last five years, and only one incident in the committee report falls in that time period. But a cover-up can extend long beyond the original crime.

The department's investigators also are studying the federal conspiracy laws and the possibility of referring the whole matter for prosecution under state laws on which the time-limit for prosecution may not have run out, such as conspiracy to commit murder.

Levi himself said last June, "If we were talking about assassinations, I guess we really don't have a statute of limitations." He added that the complex question depended on what federal laws were deemed applicable.

In its principal recommendation, the panel headed by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, called for legislation making it a crime for any U.S. official or citizen to conspire, attempt or engage in the assassination of a foreign leader.

Justice Department officials pointed out that an administration-backed revision of the federal criminal code now pending in the Senate would clearly prohibit CIA employes from hatching assassination plots.

That section would make it a felony punishable by seven years in prison for anyone to conspire within the United States to engage in conduct abroad "which would involve the death of a public servant of a foreign power with which the United States is not at war."

The Senate committee report, fruit of a still-incomplete, six-month investigation, was released by the panel after the Senate spurned appeals by the President to keep it secret. Ford wrote Senate leaders Thursday that publication would not be in the national interest.

In a closed session of nearly four hours, the Senate debated how to handle the report, but ultimately took no votes, either to block or endorse the document.

In addition to the Castro and Lumumba plots and the Trujillo affair, government officials also were aware of plots against South Vietnamese president Ngo Dinh Diem and Chilean army chief Rene Schneider where "the risk of death" existed, the committee said.

The 11-member panel also said it came across "evidence of CIA involvement in plans to assassinate President Sukarno of Indonesia and "Papa Doc" Duvalier of Haiti." Assassination plots against Castro "sometimes contemplated action against Raul Castro and Che Guevara" as well.

According to the report, there was enough evidence "to permit a reasonable inference that the plot to assassinate Lumumba was authorized by President Eisenhower" but stopped short of a finding that "the President intended an assassination effort."

The committee also said "there was insufficient evidence" that Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy or Johnson or any of their close advisers authorized the assassination of Castro.

However, the committee held out the possibility that various presidents may have purposely obscured their role in assasssination and added that "each must bear the ultimate responsibility for the activities of his subordinates."

The committee "found concrete evidence of at least eight plots involving the CIA to assassinate Fidel Castro from 1960 to 1965" using a variety of devices which "ran the gamut from high-powered rifles to poison pills, poison pens, deadly bacterial powders and other devices which strain the imagination." On at least two occasions the plots "progressed to the point of sending poison pills to Cuba and dispatching teams to commit the deed," the report said.

High-level juvenile delinquency council

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A new high-level state council has been set up to combat juvenile delinquency, says Mario Obledo, secretary of the Health and Welfare Agency.

Obledo announced that the council will try to figure out better ways of preventing delinquency than sending offenders to institutions.

Such programs, he said, "provide job counseling, tutoring, family guidance, recreation and other services to juveniles who appear to be in danger of becoming delinquent."

ON THE CIA'S LIST

These are the nine foreign leaders that were mentioned in a report released Thursday by the Senate Intelligence committee on investigation of assassination plots by the CIA.

Even new extension exhausted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment benefits, often referred to by President Ford as "our first line of defense in a recession," are running out for tens of thousands of jobless Americans.

For the most part, they are men in the prime of their working years who were employed in blue-collar jobs. But a disproportionate number are blacks and the elderly — usually the last to be rehired.

Despite the improving economy, unemployment remains at its highest level since the Great Depression of the 1930s, and most economists agree it will remain at high levels through most of the decade.

To soften the impact of the recession, Congress repeatedly extended unemployment benefits to a maximum of 65 weeks for some workers. But for the first victims of the business slump and those caught in the wave of layoffs during the 1973 Arab oil embargo that preceded it, even this economic prop has been exhausted.

Labor Department officials say 287,000 people had used up their eligibility as of last June and were forced to look elsewhere for income. The number is increasing each week, and the department estimates that in 1976 some 2,470,000 Americans will use up their benefits.

Some will find jobs. Others have alternative sources of income; some states, for example, permit retirees to draw benefits. But others will be forced to turn to welfare.

"As their unemployment compensation terminates," says Senate Labor Committee Chairman Harrison A. Williams Jr., "family savings and other assets are the first to go. Eventually, they can qualify for public assistance on the welfare rolls. The next recourse is bankruptcy. And then there is crime."

The amount and duration of unemployment benefits vary from state to state because of differences in benefit and eligibility regulations. Payments generally range from $65 to $100 a week, although payments run higher in a few states.

Labor Department officials say they are only beginning to compile up to date figures on the number of persons who have exhausted their benefits, and data to provide an accurate picture of who they are and where they live.

Congress works on compromise for federal spending

Increases were uncontrollable, says Muskie

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate wants to spend more tax money this year than the House does, and so negotiators from both chambers are seeking a compromise ceiling that will be binding on Congress.

In setting a proposed spending ceiling, the Senate voted Thursday for a sum that calls for $8.6 billion more in spending and a $6-billion larger deficit than Congress approved in May.

The new Senate budget resolution, passed 69-23, calls for $375.6 billion in spending witha $74.8 billion deficit in fiscal 1976.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, said the increases were unavoidable because they nearly all resulted from uncontrollable items.

He cited boosts in the costs of interest on the public debt, veterans benefits, farm price supports, unemployment compensation, and similar programs.

The new resolution was sent to conference with the House which earlier this month called for a $1.7 billion lower spending ceiling and a $2.7 billion smaller deficit than provided by the Senate version.

Once the two branches have agreed on a compromise resolution, it will be binding on Congress for the remainder of fiscal 1976, which ends next June 30.

The legislators are using for the first time this year the new fiscal management procedures established in the 1974 Budget Control Act.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., offered an amendment to the resolution to try to put Congress on record in favor of a tax revision package in 1976 that would have added $200 million in revenues to the $300.8 billion 1976 total prescribed in the resolution.

Kennedy said that hundreds of wealthy Americans were paying no taxes at all because of loopholes.

But his proposal lost 76-21 after Muskie and Finance Committee Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., argued it would be impossible to pass a tax reform bill in time to produce any revenue in the current year.

Long emphasized that the House has not even considered the legislation yet. His committee will have to have weeks of hearings on it, he said.

The revenue floor fixed in the Senate resolution would allow $6.4 billion of tax cuts next month in order to make sure that tax withholding rates do not go up in calendar 1976.

Muskie said the Senate resolution prescribed a tight budget requiring Congress to exercise strict fiscal discipline.

But he said it provides the needed stimulus to the economy in a recession period, with a goal of a real 8 per cent national growth rate.

A WORRIED LOOK?

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger appears to be in a pensive mood as he prepares to testify before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee in Washington Thursday. Earlier, the House Intelligence Committee voted to move ahead with at least one contempt citation against Kissinger despite President Ford's protest that the action "involves grave matters affecting our conduct of foreign policy." Action was voted to be taken on the House floor.

Shots fired during an attempted robbery

A service station attendant was shot at late Thursday night in Pomona by one of two men who attempted to rob the station at 2003 N. Towne Ave.

The victim, David G. Tagashi, said two shots were fired at him with a .22-caliber rifle as the pair left after the holdup attempt.

Earlier, he said, the two young men approached him at the Standard Station and asked for a match. Then one pulled the rifle from under his shirt and demanded money.

Tagashi pointed out that at that time of night the receipts are dropped in a steel box he had no key for. As a result, the pair got no money but took the victim's wallet and keys to the station. As they were leaving, one fired two shots at the victim.

Officer Stuart Holmes said that a passing motorist spoke to one of the robbers as they were leaving the station. Police would like that motorist to contact them to aid in the investigation.

The armed man was described as a Negro 18 to 20, 5 feet 6 weighing 150 pounds. He wore a plaid shirt and beige slacks.

A 27-year-old POMONA housewife told police Thursday that she was raped by a man who slipped into her home through an unlocked window and awakened her.

The woman said the man threatened her with a three-inch knife he held to her throat and also warned he would harm her children who were asleep in an adjacent room.

The attacker was described as a Negro about 5 feet 10 weighing 150 pounds. He wore a longsleeved, light-colored shirt, blue trousers and had a large afro hairdo.

In ONTARIO, two men, one armed with a small black handgun, robbed Jesse's Market and a market employe of a small amount of cash Thursday evening.

According to police reports, the two men walked into the store at 606 E. Francis Ave. about 7:30 p.m. and picked up some beer. As the store employe was ringing up the sale, one of the men pulled a gun and ordered him to hand over the cash from the open register. The store employe complied, but the gunman jumped over the counter and demanded the employe's wallet.

The two men, both described as Caucasians in their mid-30s ran from the store with the cash and the employe's wallet. One of the men was wearing a dark knit cap and dark clothes. The other man was wearing spotted grey pants and a dark shirt.

A 19-year-old CUCAMONGA youth was booked in the West End jail this morning for four counts of automobile burglary after he was arrested by West End sheriff's deputies in the 7800 block of Lyon Street Thursday night.

Raymond Hernandez of 8836 Center St. was arrested after a resident in the block called deputies to report two men attempting to break into her neighbor's car. Deputies arrived in time to capture Hernandez, but the second suspected burglar escaped.

Deputies said they found two citizen's band radios in the suspect's possession. Several other residents of the area reported burglars had broken into their cars and taken citizen's band radios.

A 49-year-old ONTARIO woman suffered a broken arm and bruised ribs early this morning when she was knocked to the ground by a man attempting to steal her purse in the parking lot of the Canopy Lounge at Vesta Street and San Antonio Avenue, police said.

Ann Tate of 645 W. Park St. was treated for her injuries at Kaiser Hospital and later released.

Mrs. Tate told officers that she was walking to her car when a Negro man with a small 5-to 6-year-old child approached her. She said the man suddenly made a grab for her purse, knocking her to the pavement. The man and the small boy ran when Mrs. Tate began screaming for help.

Police described the man as being 5 feet 7 to 5 feet 8 inches tall, 170 pounds, with a short Afro haircut and a thin line mustache. He was wearing a blue shirt and blue Levis. The boy with him was described as a Negro wearing a brown shirt.

A California Institution for Women inmate, following a "community betterment" speaking engagement in Placentia, escaped custody of a correctional officer Thursday, officials of the Chino institution reported.

Sought this morning for escape is Kathryn Hatfield, 27, of Los Angeles serving a one to 14-year term on two counts of forgery and one count of being in possession of fraudulent check.

CIW officials said that upon leaving the Placentia speaking engagement, the inmate ran from a correctional officer and jumped into a car driven by an unidentified person. The car sped off.

A 22-year-old Los Angeles woman, convicted of grand theft in the $18,000 swindle of a POMONA woman last March, has been sentenced to state prison for from one to 10 years.

She is Nancy Gail Newlander who was charged in connection with a pigeon drop scheme in which she and a companion were accused of bilking a 71-year-old woman in Pomona.

Marie Ellen Johnson, 27, a second suspect arrested with Newlander in Canoga Park several days after the Pomona theft, subsequently jumped $5,000 bail and has not been located, authorities said.

Miss Newlander was sentenced to prison by Van Nuys Superior Court Judge William H. Rosenthal. The Pomona case was transferred to his court to be consolidated with a similar case against her there.

In the Pomona case, the victim withdrew cash from her savings account and gave it to two women she had just met after they offered to share with her $90,000 they claimed to have found. But in order to share in the money she was required to put up "good faith money." She did, giving them $18,000. In a fast shuffle of envelopes, the woman was left with nothing.

3 Israelis killed in guerrilla raid

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Arab guerrillas from Syria staged a gun and hatchet raid on an Israeli settlement on the occupied Golan Heights, killing three 19-year-old army sergeants studying at a religious school.

Canadian postal strike continues

Christmas mail adding to the confusion

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — Many Canadians face the prospect of no Christmas mail — and no Christmas bills — as the postal strike goes into its second month with both sides standing firm.

For the businessman, the strike means unpaid customer bills, cash flow problems and forced borrowing to meet expenses.

Toronto city police say the strike is delaying justice. More than 45,000 summonses have been issued since inside postal workers walked out Oct. 21, and most are piling up in police stations. Additional charges for delayed payment have been waived.

The Ottawa police are delivering summonses by courier, but "it's costing us money," one officer said.

Letter carriers, who are not on strike, are delivering pension checks that have been sorted by supervisory staff and the few inside postal workers who have crossed picket lines.

Veterans' and family welfare checks are to be delivered beginning next week.

Sales of Christmas cards are down 50 per cent. Students of correspondence schools can't send in their assignments.

The business community, including such representative organizations as the Retail Merchants' Association and the Halifax Board of Trade, has sent hundreds of telegrams to the federal government demanding an end to the strike. Many demand back-to-work legislation.

Even Efston, owner of a Toronto mail-order business, said the strike caught his firm in the middle of mailing 70,000 catalogs. Those which were not sent when the Canadian Union Postal Workers struck must now be sent by courier at additional cost, he said.

Efston said small businessmen in the Toronto area are collecting funds to sue the union and its leaders for loss of business.

One business ad said that because Canada's mail service has been interrupted by strikes 16 times in the last 10 years, the country is beginning to look like a "banana republic" to its neighbors.

But some businessmen have found ways to get their message, and bills, to the consumer.

Ian Tower, owner of a jewelry chain in New Brunswick, said he and two other companies rotate delivery of bills.

In Edmunston, N.B., representatives of a finance company are going from door to door like milkmen collecting payments.

The British Columbia Telephone Co. reports a 10 per cent increase in long-distance calls, but bill payments are off 50 per cent. this is causing a daily cash shortage of $750,000, which the company is borrowing at 10 per cent interest, a spokesman said.

Bell Canada is delivering its bills by hand to urban customers.

Large companies have taken ads, suggesting customers pay their accounts in person now rather than wait for the end of the strike, when they will owe more.

The strike negotiations are stalemated, with the government offering $1.70 an hour over 30 months, while the union wants $2.73 an hour more than its top current rate of $4.59 in a 27-month contract.

MISS WORLD — Miss Puerto Rico, 18-year-old Wilnellia Merced, is flanked by runnersup after she was crowned Miss World in London Thursday night. Miss Germany, Marina Langner, 22, left, was second and Miss United Kingdom, Vicki Harris, 22, right, was third.

Sominex 2 ordered off market

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An over-the-counter sleeping pill called Sominex 2 has been ordered off the market in California.

The state Department of Health telegraphed the manufacturer Thursday that Sominex 2 labels lack proper warnings.

The company, J.B. Williams Corp. of New York, said it would reply to the order today.

The telegram said the label does not warn against use by pregnant or nursing women or persons with chronic lung diseases, against use with other medicines or alcoholic beverages, or against continued use if drowsiness persists into daytime hours.

The department said another product called simply Sominex is not affected by the order.

2-month watch pays off

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Arson investigators say a man they watched for more than two months has been arrested after two small brush fires erupted in pre-dawn hours.

Jay Hart, 31, of Sherman Oaks, was booked Thursday for investigation of arson after city fire officials said arson officers arrested him near the site of a blaze in the Mulholland-Beverly Glen area.

The two fires early Thursday burned a combined 2½ acres, firemen said.

Cash urged for the poor

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Cash, not food stamps, should be given to poor people — but jobs would be better yet, says Mario Obledo, California secretary of Health and Welfare.

At a statewide conference on hunger, Obledo called food stamps "the badge of poverty" at grocery checkout stands.

But he added that money spent on food programs would be better spent by "channeling it into the creation of jobs for people."

Handgun bill hits dealers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Handgun legislation clearing its first of many congressional hurdles would impose mandatory prison sentences for using a handgun to commit a felony but contains no ban on cheap handguns or any new licensing or registration provisions for owners.

Instead, the bill sent Thursday to the House Judiciary Committee generally deals with the handgun issue by imposing new requirements on handgun dealers, such as increasing the costs of their licenses.

The subcommittee on crime voted 4-3 for the bill after working on the legislation for five weeks.

The legislation is similar to that offered by President Ford, who opposes registration or licensing. Ford, however, proposed the outlawing of the cheaply made, easily concealable handguns known as Saturday Night Specials.

The mandatory sentences are 1 to 10 years for a first offense and 2 to 25 years for a second offense. An attempt to increase these to 2 to 10 years and 5 to 25 years was defeated.

The bill also provides for a waiting period of 21 days before a purchase of a handgun can be completed. The wait is to permit a local law enforcement check on an individual but does not call for FBI verification that the buyer is not a convicted felon, fugitive from justice or mental incompetent.

The subcommittee approved the bill after Chairman John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., said he had been contacted by Judiciary Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., and House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. and told to complete his work before the Thanksgiving recess.

But not downtown

FRESNO (AP) — Mrs. Patricia Urie was too busy to wash her car at home so she did it downtown during her lunch hour from work.

While she was dousing the car with water, a policeman cited her for violating a city ordinance that bans car washing on public streets.

A police smokesman, asked if curbside car washing isn't fairly common, admitted that "I think everyone does it...but they just don't do it downtown."

More women turning to crime, LEAA chief reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Women are going into crime in a bigger way but law enforcement officials are ignoring it, the deputy chief of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration said Thursday.

Criminologists have done little, if any, research to determine why some women turn to crime and what might be done to prevent it, and the courts and prison system pay little attention to the particular needs of women offenders, said Charles R. Work in a speech prepared for regional LEAA administrators.

In addition, he said, law enforcement officials have failed to provide equal job opportunities for women and have neglected the women victims of rape and other crimes especially directed at them.

He said the criminal justice system "is a system run by males, predominantly for males. Consequently, it has demonstrated little concern with or interest in the problems of women — either as offenders, victims or as employes."

Work spoke on his last day in office. He submitted his resignation about a month ago and plans to join a private Washington law firm.

He said an LEAA task force on women has found that "law enforcement officials are largely unaware of the status and needs of women in all facets of the criminal justice system."

Women and crime have received recent attention following the federal indictments in California earlier this year of Lynette Fromme and Sara Jane Moore on charges of trying to kill President Ford.

FBI figures indicate that the number of crimes committed by women soared 246 per cent between 1960 and 1972, although women still commit far fewer crimes than men do, he noted.

FBI crime statistics released this week showed that the number of women arrested in 1974 was 9 per cent greater than the number arrested the previous year. The number of men arrested rose 2 per cent during the same period.

During the past five years, "arrests of males were up 35 per cent and female arrests increased 68 per cent" for the seven crime categories measured, the FBI report said.

Vietnam refugee not completely satisfied in U.S.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Dr. Nghiem Dao Dai says he's luckier than most of the 126,000 refugees who fled to the United States last spring after the fall of South Vietnam. But he says he often feels discriminated against in America, and his wife is unhappy and lonely.

With his pregnant wife and 2-year-old daughter, he escaped from Saigon last April three days before the city fell to the Communists.

Dai, 34, said his family had 45 minutes to pack and reach the home of an American friend who had desperately arranged their evacuation.

Left behind in Vietnam were Dai's mother, two sisters, two brothers, a four-story home, a teaching position at the University of Saigon and a future as one of Vietnam's best surgeons.

All they brought with them, he said, were a "few clothes, my documents to show I was a doctor...and a determination that my children wouldn't be raised by the Communists."

"I was luckier than most," he said. "I know English, I have skills and I'd been to America before. I knew everything here is different — the culture and the language."

Dr. Henry Bahnson, chief of surgery at the University of Pittsburgh — where Dai had studied for 16 months in 1973 and 1974, located Dai at the Camp Pendleton, Calif., refugee center and helped him find a job as a resident at the University of Arkansas Medical Center.

Discrimination is the biggest problem he has encountered in this country, Dai said.

"People just are uneasy when I'm around," he said. "Maybe it's just because I don't speak English so well. But I think it's more than that."

His wife is "not very happy," he said. "At home (Saigon) she had a big house and friends and maids. She doesn't speak English so its hard for her to get along by herself."

Dai fled to Saigon from Hanoi in 1954 after the Communists defeated the French. He said that move was easier than the one to America because the culture and language were the same.

Despite difficulties in America, Dai says he's glad he left Vietnam.

"The theology is just different under the Communists — they like to separate family members and teach them about the party," he said.

Dai said he is more concerned with ideology than material items.

"I don't need a car, I can ride a bicycle and I can live on 300 grams of rice a day," he added. "But I didn't want my children to grow up that way, and I don't want anybody to tell me how to think."

Had he stayed, Dai said the Communists would have "sent me somewhere to wash my brain."

He said the new government probably would not have allowed him to practice medicine, because "they have no respect for skills, they just care about the party."

Dr. Gilbert Campbell, chief of surgery at the Arkansas medical center, said Dai is a "top-flight doctor," who will be able to practice independently after he completes two years of residency training.

Study reveals teen problem

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. (AP) — A study of teen-age drinking habits says 28 per cent of the nation's teen-agers are problem drinkers.

The national survey of 13,000 youths in 450 schools across the country found that the 28 per cent reported themselves as drunk at least four times in the past year or said that their drinking got them in trouble with peers or superiors at least twice in the past year. The surveyors said that constituted a drinking problem.

The survey was done for the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism by the Research Triangle Institute. Students in the survey filled out a questionnaire.

The survey results indicated that less than 18 per cent of the nation's 17-year-olds have never taken a drink although the legal drinking age in all states is at least 18.

The researchers found that about one-fourth of the 13-year-olds surveyed could be classified as moderate drinkers. They defined a moderate drinker as one who drinks lightly once a week or drinks more heavily on occasion. Only 38 per cent of the 13-year-olds said they were teetotalers.

Project director J. Valley Rachal, who released the results of the survey Wednesday, said that was the most surprising finding.

Close to half of all the students surveyed said they had been drunk within the past year.

Rachal said the 35-page questionnaire indicated that beer was the teenagers' most popular beverage. Boys drank more often and more heavily than girls; and children of drinking parents tended to drink more frequently.

He called the survey the first full-scale study of teen-age drinking patterns in the nation and said it would help the NIAAA to devise ways to combat drinking problems.

Live octuplets

The only confirmed case of live-born octuplets was the four boys and four girls born to Senora Maria Teresa Lopez de Sepulveda, aged 21, in a nursing home in Mexico City, Mexico, in 1967.

Scott gets death threats

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) Walter Scott, who reportedly gave the FBI information that eventually led to the arrest of Patricia Hearst and William and Emily Harris, says he's received a number of death threats over his role in the case.

"I have had serious, in an interview. He said he did not know if the threats came from possible remnants of the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army but added, "it-s people with a strong affinity to the SLA."

ded, "it's people with a strong affinity to the SLA."

Scott, 42, the brother of radical sports activist Jack Scott, indicated the threats were made because of "erroneous news reports to the effect that I was a paid FBI informant."

Scott said there is a reason for personal concern if a person is depicted as a paid FBI informant involving people with violent tendencies.

Jack Scott was believed by the FBI to have rented a farmhouse in Pennsylvania where Miss Hearst and the Harrises stayed in 1974. They were captured last September in San Francisco.

Walter Scott reportedly gave FBI information that lead to discovery the fugitives had stayed at the farmhouse.

"I did supply information," Scott said.

"I supplied information directed towards the apprehension of four individuals who were not caught in monasteries or convents. They were caught in roomsful of guns and bullets and explosives —weapons of terror."

Scott denied a report that he was drunk and walked into a police station to give the information to authorities.

Rather, he said, he was picked up by police in Scranton, Pa., and brought in for interrogation by police and FBI agents.

West Coast Schools hit with probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Enrique E. Ponce, despondent over his lack of education, decided to become a television repairman. That decision, he told a Senate panel, led to three years of harassment, government threats and the end of his dream of some day owning his own home.

Ponce told senators he found a trade school offering a television repair course, passed an aptitude test and signed up for a $1,500 federally guaranteed loan from the school to pay for his studies.

After each day's work as a construction laborer he went to the Solar Electronic School, a branch of West Coast Schools in Monrovia, Calif. For three hours at night he studied ohms, volts and wiring schematics. But after two weeks he realized the course was too much for a man without even an eighth grade education and he dropped out.

He said that until last March, he was hounded by collection agencies and warned by the U.S. Office of Education to pay off the entire $1,500 loan.

Ponce appeared before the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations. The panel is probing reports of abuses and lax management of the federal government's student aid programs.

The son of a farmworker, Ponce said he hoped by enrolling in the school to better provide for his wife and their four children.

"Having come from a broken home, I realized the importance of keeping my own family together," he said. "I felt I would have a better chance at this if I could make a better living."

He had left a Tulare County farm job for Los Angeles and construction work, hoping to save enough money to buy his own home. "In early 1972, after growing despondent about the fact that I had not even finished the eighth grade, I decided to try and learn a skill," he said. Advertisements lured him to West Coast Schools.

"While I tried to follow the course, it was difficult for me since the subject matter was highly technical," he said. "Most of the material was well beyond my comprehension."

Project funds are withdrawn

OROVILLE (AP) — Funds allocated by the state Legislature in 1973 for the Feather River recreation and enhancement project at Oroville have been withdrawn by the state.

Ronald Robie, director of the state Department of Water Resources, told Mayor Robert Winston in a letter that the park and Flash-board Dam project would have to be funded locally.

Winston, who made the letter public Wednesday, expressed disappointment at the news the area will lose $1.2 million in state funding.

Bill Stall, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s press secretary, said the Democratic governor took no part in the decision.

Trustee quits over disclosure law

MSAC sets Dec. 10 deadline for applications to fill post

Robert S. Hickson, a prominent Pomona attorney, resigned from the Mt. San Antonio College board of trustees Thursday night rather than reveal his list of clients and how much they were paying him.

His decision may be the forerunner of scores of similar actions throughout the state in the wake of the 1974 Political Reforms Act which requires school board members to file annual financial disclosure statements.

Hickson said he had not thought the disclosure requirements covered school trustees, but last June Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger ruled to the contrary.

The 57-year-old board member concluded that the filing of such disclosures would be a "breach of the attorney-client confidential relationship" that would "directly or indirectly violate my privileged communications and those of other members of my firm."

The rest of the board members accepted the resignation with regret, effective immediately, and moved to fill the vacancy by appointment.

Chairman Richard Todd invited all persons interested in serving on the board to contact college President Eldon E. Pearce by Dec. 10. He said the board will go over all the applications on Dec. 16, and will pick a successor on Dec. 18.

The successor will serve through April 1, 1977 but will not be designated as an incumbent, if he seeks election at that time, Todd said.

Although the resignation caught school officials and other board members by surprise, Hickson indicated that he had spent a great deal of time mulling over it.

He said he became concerned when the Moscone Act was passed in 1973, but "I received interpretation that it was not effective to school board members."

The next year California voters approved the Political Reform Act under which every governmental agency had to set up its own conflict of interest code requiring financial disclosure statements.

Mt. San Antonio College must adopt such a code by next April, Hickson said.

"Because of this requirement in the law, Mrs. Hickson and I put our Pomona home on the market and it has sold. We are moving our residence out of the district." The Hicksons are moving to Claraboya in Claremont.

Hickson has been on the board since 1968, succeeding the late A. T. Richardson, who had resigned at that time. He won election to four-year terms in 1969 and 1973.

He is a partner in the firm of Nichols, Stead, Boileau and Lamb.

Hickson's father, the late A. L. Hickson, also an attorney, served as a trustee of the college from its inception in 1946 until his resignation in 1959.

Walnut city manager takes Montebello post

Andrew C. Lazzaretto, city manager of Walnut since 1969, is resigning to become assistant city administrator of Montebello Dec. 1.

Walnut City Council already has begun a search for his successor. Applications will be accepted until Jan. 25.

Montebello has a population of 47,000 in contrast to Walnut's nearly 7,000.

Lazzaretto was invited to apply for the Montebello job last summer, he said today. He competed with approximately 400 applicants for the appointment. The position has been unfilled since 1973, when the previous assistant city administrator resigned.

During Lazzaretto's six years in Walnut, a civic center complex has been approved.

He has worked with Los Angeles County to obtain matching funds for road improvements in Walnut. Lemon Creek Park has been acquired and is being developed as a historical site with restoration of an adobe on the property.

Lazzaretto was 1974-1975 president of the Walnut Valley Kiwanis Club. Currently he is vice chairman of the Mt. San Antonio College Relays and will return to the community as chairman of the event next year, he said.

The top cats are entered in show here

That all cats are not alike will be demonstrated Saturday and Sunday when the Teacher's Pet Cat Club presents its third annual cat show at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds at Pomona.

The show will be held at the International Building from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days.

Among the many rare, unusual and exotic breeds — some of which already are champions and grand champions —,are the Korats from Thailand, Manx from the Isle of Man, Russian Blues from Europe, and the Birmans, the sacred cat of Burma.

Others which may be seen will include Abyssinians, Siamese, Persians, Burmese, Himalayans, Egyptian Maus, Havana Browns, Angoras, Japanese Bobtails, Ragdolls, Scottish Folds, Rex, Maine Coon Cats, and American Shorthairs.

The difficult task of selecting the best cats will be handled by four well-known judging personalities and two surprise celebrities who will be named later.

The show also will feature a bazaar of cat items.

Cucamongan found dead

Harlan Eriksen, 55, of 9397 Lemon Ave., Cucamonga, was found dead in the bathroom of his home Thursday morning of what West End sheriff's deputies said was self-induced hanging.

Harlan was found hanging from the ceiling of the bathroom with several belts and a sheet around his neck about 10:35 a.m. Deputies said Harlan, prior to his death, had been undergoing psychiatric treatment.

Covina school is dedicated

The new East San Gabriel Valley School at 4400 N. Roxburgh St., Covina, was dedicated Tuesday by Jean M. Wood, director of Los Angeles County School's Division of Special Education.

The school was built to serve 96 multi-handicapped children.

Spelunking is Kiwanis topic

The La Verne-San Dimas Kiwanis Club will hear a talk, "Years of Spelunking," by Mrs. Chase Harper at the annual Ladies' Night dinner to be held Monday at 6:30 p.m. at McKinley Home for Boys in San Dimas.

Mrs. Harper, who resides in La Verne, graduated from La Verne College in June in the CAPA program.

Before coming to California she owned her own cave and was a cave explorer for 30 years. She is a life member of the National Speleological Society.

Chino action unit to dine

The Chino Community Action Council will sponsor a potluck dinner Saturday at 6 p.m. to honor volunteer workers who helped refurbish the newly-opened community recreation center.

A "citizen of the month" award also will be given at the dinner in the Community Building.

Parks, downtown projects get push for L.V. aid targets

More park development and more zest for the downtown area are emerging as the top candidates in La Verne for the use of about $140,000 in federal grants during the next two years.

The priorities were offered at a public hearing held by the City Council Monday. A second hearing will be held Dec. 1 before the council decides what to do with the money.

Land acquisition, facilities for existing parks and construction of a band shell were the top choice of a Community Development Advisory Board which held several meetings last month.

But the Chamber of Commerce wants a new facade for the downtown area that will draw more people to the shopping center.

Chamber President Barry Anderson told the council this week that the facelifting job might include covered walkways through downtown streets, more parking and better traffic circulation.

He suggested that the council consider paying off the cost of its new $20,000 Liberty Bell and finding a permanent location for it as part of the project.

The bell, a replica of the original in Philadelphia and one of two in the state, was bought by the city's Bicentennial Committee with money advanced by the council. There is an understanding that the committee will pay the money back.

The federal grants are part of the Community Development Block program for which the city has applied to Los Angeles County. City Manager George Caswell told the council the city is eligible for about $140,000 during the next two years, and for an additional $300,000 if the program is extended by Congress for an additional three years.

Egly named supervising judge in Superior Court 3rd time

Judge Paul Egly has been appointed supervising judge for the Pomona Superior Court for 1976 — the third straight year he has held that position.

As supervising judge, Egly will have practically the same panel of judges he worked with this year. The only exception is that Judge Charles S. Vogel is supposed to replace Judge Philip F. Jones.

Otherwise the 1976 assignments are the same as those in 1975 with judges Francis J. Garvey, Howard D. McClain, Robert M. Takasugi and Carlos M. Teran remaining in the local court.

Vogel, formerly assigned to the Pomona court, currently is on loan to the state appellate court. He has been assigned back to the local court beginning Jan. 2 — the effective date of all the assignments. But Egly said he does not expect Vogel to have finished his assignment with the appellate court before March or April.

"If Vogel is being counted as one of our judges," Egly said, "We're in trouble because I don't think he will be able to join us the first of the year."

Egly said the Pomona court already is two judges short of the number it should have. He pointed out that neither Robert Firth, now a federal judge, nor Glenn M. Pfau, now assigned in Los Angeles, was replaced when they left.

Egly said he expected the commissioners currently assigned to remain next year. They are Donald W. Pike, Jess Whitehill and Gerald Malkan.

Judge Jones is being transferred from the Pomona court to the Northwest District Court in Van Nuys. The assignments were announced by Robert A. Wenke, who has been elected to serve as presiding judge for the second straight year. William P. Hogoboom has been re-elected assistant presiding judge.

Bobby pin saves woman's life

NEW YORK (AP) — Betty Peters, 31, had a bobby pin imbedded in her scalp. But it could have been a bullet.

Police said Miss Peters' boyfriend, Raymond Davis, an off-duty housing policeman, fired a shot at her head during an argument in his car. They said the bullet ricocheted off a bobby pin in her hair, bounced off a part of the car and then nicked Davis in the leg.

The shooting occurred in the Bronx as the couple was driving home from a party.

Both were treated at Lincoln Hospital.

Spain's Iron Man

Iberia, home of two of the longest running dictatorships of the 20th century, had seemed as stable as the great rock which marks its southern extremity at Gibraltar — until last year when the winds of change swept into the peninsula with hurricane force.

In April of 1974, reform-minded army officers in Portugal threw out the heirs of dictator Antonio de Salazar who had died in 1970 and began an uncertain experiment in democracy. There was speculation then about what effects, if any, the revolutionary events in Portugal would have on next-door Spain where aging and ailing Generalissimo Francisco Franco was still, at least symbolically, iron man.

Now El Caudillo, the leader, is dead at 82 and his constitutionally designated successor, Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, grandson of Spain's last king, is chief of state. But Juan Carlos is no more expected to govern Spain than did Alfonso XIII before he was sent into exile in 1931 by a short-lived republican government.

The 36 years of political tranquility Spain enjoyed under Franco after the end of its bitter Civil War in 1939 was a period of surface calm only, an exception in Spain's turbulent modern history. Ever since Napoleon tried to impose his brother as king in the early 19th century, Spain has been racked by intermittent revolt, brief liberal government, the reinstitution of authoritarian rule, either monarchial or military, and revolt again.

In that century, Spain lost almost all the overseas colonies won in the stirring age of exploration and saw itself fall into the status of third or fourth-rate power, an impoverished backwater of Europe whose days of greatness were only a memory.

To give the man his due, Franco's long rule was, by material measure, beneficial to Spain and what the country needed after exhausting itself in the Civil War. While Europe tore itself asunder in World War II, Franco, though sympathetic to the Axis, kept Spain neutral and began the process of national rebuilding. Spain shared in Europe's postwar economic recovery and profited from the ensuing Cold War in the form of American aid in exchange for military bases.

But what Franco did not give Spain, what no dictatorship can give, was human liberty, an orderly and peaceful means by which power can be handed to a new generation and a system which can accommodate social change while preserving social cohesion.

The scars of the 1936-39 war still run deep, as does Spain's tradition of struggle against foreign or domestic oppressors. Failing the emergence of another strongman in the mold of Franco, these elements are bound to surface again sooner or later.

Boom time in Poconos

Americans are traveling more than ever before, but thanks to the combined effects of inflation, recession and high gasoline prices, they're not going as far as they used to.

The American Automobile Assn. reports that while auto travel is up by as much as 20 per cent over last year, there has been a major change in the pattern: Vacationers are staying closer to home and are staying longer in one place. Honeymooners are one example.

According to the Pocono Mountain Honeymoon Center, 1974 was a record year for what bills itself as the "honeymoon capital of the world." Pocono Mountain resorts in New York hosted more than 250,000 newlywed couples last year, an increase of more than 5 per cent over 1973. Figures for the first three months of 1975 were the highest for any first quarter in the area's history.

"The fluctuating economy and higher fuel prices have actually helped us," says Bob Uguccioni, director of the Honeymoon Center.

Right to bear arms

Dear Editor:

Once again we have numerous bills in the Legislature awaiting passage in regards to gun control. These bills have for the most part been drawn up by elected officials who have taken an oath to "uphold the Constitution of the United States." "The right to keep and bear arms" is a part of the Constitution and attempts to confiscate firearms is unconstitutional, un-American and a direct threat to our national security.

If only the present laws regarding illegal use of firearms were strictly enforced and the misfits of society properly punished, the false need for additional gun laws would cease.

Little consideration is given the law-abiding citizen by these cheap "high dollar" politicians who advocate gun control in one form or another. Instead of attacking the real problem, the armed criminal, they prefer to disarm the honest law-abiding citizen.

Do you think for one minute that a criminal about to commit a crime with a gun would give a damn that it was illegal to even possess one? At least the armed robber could be assured that his victim would be unarmed making it easier for him to get away safely. Heroin is also illegal to possess and has been for quite some time. However, a small city like Pomona has approximately 2,000 heroin addicts. Is gun control different?

Let's elect people who are willing to draw up laws against the criminal element of our society and hence enforce them in order to protect the innocent majority. This alone would solve the crime problems in the city of Pomona.

I'm quite aware of the problems we are having in regards to crime in this immediate area. In fact, I have first-hand knowledge because I am a cop.

One thing I will guarantee is that confiscation of guns or additional laws are not going to solve our problems. I'm sure we all know the answer.

Incidentally, I don't agree with the numerous anti-gun articles which appear so frequently in the Progress Bulletin. As a whole they insult the intelligence of the average American. However, I will defend your right to print them. Please don't infringe on my rights. —Al Brabender

What's law and order?

Dear Editor:

A few years ago I was getting over a badly broken foot and leg. My husband had left for work and a strange man walked in our door. I yelled for him to get out. He didn't. So I hobbled next door to our neighbors and yelled for them to call the police.

The man next door came over with his gun. He got the man out of our house. He was gone before the police arrived. I told the officer what had taken place. The officer asked me if our neighbor had pointed his gun at the man to make him leave. I told him no. He said it was a good thing because if he had he would be in jail now.

That evening the officer returned and talked with my husband. My husband told the officer that if he had been home that man would have been shot. The officer told my husband if he had shot the man, he, my husband would have been in jail. We couldn't understand that all, but as the officer told us, their hands are tied. After all these years, I have always wondered who ties the police hands. — Mrs. P.M., Montclair

Go after the source

Dear Editor:

I read with disgust the article on Page 14 of Sunday morning's Progress Bulletin, "Gun control seems to be working for some," by Terry Kirkpatrick of the Associated Press. If it is, I'd like to know for whom.

Mr. Kirkpatrick claimed in his article that "gun related" crimes came down "a little," but because the countries he uses as examples won't give figures for firearm crimes, then we don't really know if the crime was carried out or not, whether the criminal chose not to commit the crime, just because he didn't have a gun, or if he chose a different type of weapon. I rather doubt the crime didn't come off, just because of the absence of a gun.

With the all out war on crime that the people of Pomona have been waging of late, I strongly suggest that the Progress Bulletin use a bit more discretion in the articles it prints. If we are going to have a war on crime in this city, then let's go after the source of the problem, the bad guy, the crooks, the criminal who commits the crime, and the judges in our courts who spank them and then turn them loose on the citizenry. Let's put them where they belong, in jail.

Let's see the Progress Bulletin print some real facts about firearms and the foolishness of gun control. For the facts, contact Chief Ed Davis of the Los Angeles Police Department, the FBI for its uniform crime report of each passing year, or Harlan B. Carter of the National Rifle Association.

I've been a citizen of Pomona Valley for 30 years and a reader of the Progress Bulletin just as long. There is no one or group in this valley more fed up with crime than I am. So, please, if we are going to have a war on crime in this valley, let's do it by printing facts in our newspaper, rather than emotional, unfactual, sensationalism like Sunday's article. — Walter M. Rugh, Pomona

LANDSAT Satellites

Dear Editor:

Billions of dollars have been spent on our space program since President Kennedy first committed this country to landing a man on the moon. It's now up to Congress and the administration to make a similar commitment to apply what we have learned from our space program to assisting man in his attempt to deal with his environment. After all, the American taxpayer has already paid the bill for sending a man to the moon. Now it's only right that all of us begin to receive the benefits of our effort.

I wish to commend the Progress Bulletin for its editorial of October 31st, "Getting a drop on the weather." The editorial urges Congress and the administration to give greater consideration to the practical aspects of space technology such as the LANDSAT series of satellites.

As a member of the Committee on Science and Technology, which has jurisdiction over the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), I share your concern to problem-solving here on earth. LANDSAT is an excellent example of such application.

LANDSAT I, which was launched in 1972, transmitted data during its first years of operation for use by more than 300 investigators from 38 countries. Their work proved the value of LANDSAT data in such fields as land use, agriculture, forestry, range management, marine resources, oceanography, oil and mineral exploration, geology and environmental impact programs. These activities opened the way for further, more sophisticated data processing following the launching of LANDSAT 2 earlier this year.

I fully intend to continue to urge Congress to support those practical aspects of space technology, like LANDSAT, that will benefit man here on earth. Again congratulations on an excellent article. — Jim Lloyd Member of Congress

Don't hold back

Dear Editor:

As a Pomona home owner since 1951, I feel that your "Stand up and be counted" policy is long overdue. Your spotlight on crime coverage shows only the tip of the iceberg. The police radio in the Pomona Valley is busy 24 hours each day with hundreds of criminal acts reported which never reach the public except through the directly involved victims.

The same names seem to figure in many of these crimes and it seems our police are kept busy catching the same crooks over and over again. All too often the prosecution can feel that he has won a conviction in the courtroom only to have the judge and the defense attorney spring the defendant free in the back room.

Perhaps if we treated some of the expedient-minded jurists as accomplices to criminal repeaters, the number of crimes would drop abruptly. The average voter would welcome a batting average on those judges who are listed with anonymity regarding their judgment each election. Faulty "judgment" should not be rewarded by re-election from an uninformed voting public.

When we were younger we lived in a smaller community where we knew who to avoid and who our friends were. Now thanks to the policy of concealing criminal identity we have become a community of strangers where we are suspicious and even fearful of those we don't know.

Please don't hold back on reporting the big criminal who rips off our city or state just because personal crimes are the spotlight feature. The police blotter and the judicial scoreboard are just as important as the grand jury indictment.

As a responsible press, you have a duty to report the bad as well as the good news. Our generation knew a radio reporter named Gabriel Heatter who always lead off his program with the words: "There is good news tonight."

You can perhaps please some of your detractors who cry out against the spotlight on crime by publishing the good news that one less crook or thug is working our city as a result of your efforts. Keep up the good work. — R.E.B., Pomona

"Troubles" and friends

Dear Editor:

We are very pleased to read that "Troubles" and 36 other homeless animals now are to be loved and cared for and that you, in cooperation with the humane society, will be publishing a picture of a "Pet of the Week."

I have previously sent to the humane society and to you clippings from Iowa newspapers of a sampling of such a column as we felt it could be helpful in the work of helping unfortunate animals.

Some great person once said, "The sign of a civilization is how a people treats animals." It will be healthy for us to see pictures of animals and children. Love given, yes even to animals, is reciprocated. It was news to learn that students at Mt. San Antonio College also participate in this undertaking.

Ah, the wise Chinese were right. A picture is worth a thousand words and "Troubles," I hope, will have a new name, "Made It." — Mrs. Bessie Abdella, Pomona

Bonita Avenue patrol

Dear Editor:

The subject of this letter is the stretch of Bonita Avenue starting at the east city limits of La Verne and ending approximately a mile into San Dimas. About midway along this route is the San Dimas Sheriff's Substation and the San Dimas Police Station. It seems that if anyone without a wrinkle in their face, or hair above the ears faces a better than 50 per cent chance of being stopped and questioned, or ticketed. I realize there isn't much that can be done about this police practice. However, a warning to your younger readers to take care along this route or avoid it if possible would be greatly appreciated. — Dennis Nageotte, Claremont

Just in jest

And still they come! The folks who are out to make a fast buck by trying to cash in on our nation's Bicentennial are definitely going to accomplish one thing. They'll end up making it a terrible bore before it even gets under way. The latest in a long list of Bicentennial come-ons, in case you're still interested, is a Bicentennial Haircut for men.

And so, I ask you, doesn't it seem a shame the way we are commercializing our grand and glorious past? There's so much we could learn from it if we would only take it seriously. In the Seventeen Thirties, for instance, when the American colony of Georgia was being organized, our wise and prudent forefathers stipulated three evils which were to be avoided like the seven year itch if a body politic were to survive and prosper. Georgia, they said, would have no slaves, no lawyers and no hard liquor.

Ronald Reagan
Teen-agers lose under new bill

(Editor's Note: Ronald Reagan's weekly commentary column is being discontinued after this week, Copley News Service has informed the Progress Bulletin and 259 other newspapers subscribing to the column. In a notice attached to this week's column, the news service advised: "This is the last of the Reagan columns since the former governor is expected to announce his presidential candidacy.")

It's part of the past now, but there was a time when a lot of teen-agers got after-school, weekend, and summer jobs simply because it was easy for local businessmen to hire them. At the end of the week the boss could dig into his pocket, pay the youngster the agreed wage, and not worry about a blizzard of tax forms to fill out.

No one would argue that the tax deductions and the paper work do result in some benefit for the working teen-agers, but the benefits may not outweigh the disadvantages. When you look at unemployment figures you see that teen-agers make up a large portion of the job-seeking group these days.

Human nature being what it is, many employers who might put teen-agers on part-time if they didn't have to contend with minimum wage laws and stacks of forms just don't do it.

A new bill in Congress could complicate things further so far as work for teen-agers is concerned. HR 10130 by Congressman John Dent of Pennsylvania would amend the Fair Labor Practices Act to raise the minimum wage, by degrees, to $3 per hour in July, 1977. (Present law calls for it to go to $2.65 by then.) It would tie the minimum wage level at that point to the consumer price index, thus making it contribute to the seemingly endless wage-price spiral. In other words, part of the problem instead of part of the solution.

Overtime would go from time-and-a-half to two-and-a-half times the basic wage rate, if the bill passes.

Organized labor has been pushing for this liberalization of the minimum wage law, but it doesn't seem to want to think about the fact that it will end up costing all consumers — including those it benefits directly — more for the things they buy.

It will more directly affect thousands of teen-agers in such businesses as "fast foods." One operator of fast-food franchises in several states say the net effect of the bill would be to shift the composition of his work force from mostly high school-age youngsters who now work a complicated pattern of odd-hour shifts, to fewer workers, adults who will work full-time. His reason: scheduling the teen-agers is time-consuming. If the minimum wage goes up that high, that fast, with promises of more and faster increases, it's simpler to let the teen-agers go and hire full-time employes.

Now the labor hierarchy may say "just fine" to that, because it will presumably make jobs available for the adult unemployed. Maybe so, but even if it were true, what do they suggest the newly unemployed teen-agers do? Tear around town on two wheels?

The fast-food franchise estimates there are a quarter of a million part-time teen-age workers in this field alone. What of the boys who drive delivery trucks after school for pharmacies, florists and other small businesses, or the kids who sweep out stores and do other odd jobs or weekends? Chances are, the escalating minimum wage will cause many an employer of teen-agers to decide he can do without them and either reduce services or distribute their work to other employes.

While Congress is considering these changes in the minimum wage law they might also study the possible effect on teen-age employment in particular and the work force in general of a two-tiered minimum wage system. One would be for full-time workers; the other, lower one, for part-time student workers.

So far the bill's proponents haven't come up with any suggestion to replace the benefits of part-time work for teen-agers who learn from it the value of work, self-reliance and the need to save for the future. Old-fashioned perhaps, but hard values to replace.

Major marital woes unsolved

I've got big marital problems.

Because of added financial problems, I need to know of a marriage counseling service where there is no fee for problems such as mine.

I have contacted county health departments, etc., and have been told there are ways of getting help but no one seems to have the exact information I need.

County people I contacted spoke of services where you pay according to your income but that's not any real help.— Mrs. D. G., Pomona.

Marriage counseling, like any other service, costs money. Payment according to income seems reasonable.

However, Family Services of Pomona Valley figures in the number of people in the family and financial obligations.

Family Services has a new home at 2055 N. Garey Ave., Pomona. Its new phone number is 593-7408.

FOLLOW-UP:

On Oct. 24 we published a letter from N.R., Claremont, asking if Royal Cream of Tartar Baking Powder could be found anywhere these days.

We asked readers' help and received a reply from Mrs. Ione Anderson, also of Claremont.

On a trip east she had searched the stores of Michigan, Wisconsin and Illinois for the product. On her return she inquired at local stores.

Then she wrote to Standard Brand Inc. and was told that ingredients were increasingly difficult to obtain, making it temporarily prohibitive to produce Royal Cream of Tartar Baking Powder.

Mrs. Anderson has two sisters who are home economists. One came up with a simple mixture said to be similar to the manufactured product: half a teaspoon of cream of tartar, a quarter teaspoon of baking soda and a quarter teaspoon of corn starch.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It will be difficult to get your mate and those around you to share your natural enthusiasm today. Subdue your ardor. Do what's best for all.

TAURUS (April 20-May 202 You try to spread yourself too thin today. Keep in mind: It is better to do one thing well than to attempt everything and accomplish nothing.

Parents can go only so far

Dear Ann Landers: Tell us again about the joys of family. We aren't convinced.

Our only child, a son, 23, has caused us more heartache than we can bear. This boy was every parent's dream until he reached 14 and started on drugs. After numerous arrests he was sent to a reform school, released on parole, and arrested shortly after for breaking and entering.

We have done everything we can think of to help straighten him out, but nothing works. People always think it's the parents' fault, but is it? We did our best — paid out a small fortune for professional help, but no one could reach him.

We've spent hundreds of sleepless nights worrying about our son, afraid the phone would ring again — someone asking us to come and get him (passed out from an overdose) or telling of a car accident with him dead or others killed by his recklessness.

If you'd like to see a grown man cry, look me up any day. — His Dad

Dear Dad: When children go wrong, it's not always the parents' fault. We now know that the genetic factor can be a dominating influence in behavioral patterns.

Some children inherit fragile nervous systems. They go haywire and crack up — don't respond to parental love or professional help.

So stop feeling guilty. You've done your best. Angels can do no more.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell the reader who signed himself "Speechless" not to fret over those cheapies who came to his restaurant and brought cartons of Chinese food purchased at a carry-out place down the street. There's a way to put an end to such behavior.

I had a few "customers" who pulled the same stunt — only these fools brought their lunch in paper bags and sat in a booth for a full hour, drinking our water, using our salt, pepper, sugar, mustard, catsup, toothpicks and paper napkins. (They always left a mess and said "thank you" when they left.)

After a week of it, I handed them a check just as they are preparing to leave. I charged them $1 per person for the use of the booth and the items on the table.

They were shocked, refused to pay it and walked out in a huff. Needless to say I never saw them again. — Good Riddance

Dear Friend: Your signature is my comment. Good thinking!

Dear Ann Landers: A girl who started to work here a few months ago came up to me and said, "I'm told you have a beautiful voice and sing at weddings. Will you sing at mine?" I said I'd be glad to.

The wedding was beautiful. Her father must have spent a great deal of money on it. I sang three numbers and my sister accompanied me at the piano. The bride and groom and their parents were very complimentary about my singing.

A week ago the new Mrs. returned from her honeymoon. Again she thanked me for singing — but made no mention of money. Usually I get $40 or $50. Should I send her a bill? — Been Had

Dear Had: Sorry, it's too late. The time to have talked about money was when she asked you to sing.

Some brides present the musician with a gift if no fee is set and the music is provided as a favor — but you can't ask for THAT either.

Teaching your kids the facts of life can be easy or awkward. Ann Landers's new booklet, "How, What, and When to Tell Your Child About Sex" can spell the difference. Send 50 cents in coin, along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request, to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois, 60120.

Cars are safe — when stopped

Autumn of the year is signaled in New England by the turning of the leaves, in Florida by the turning of the houses (hurricane season) and in Southern California by nothing. But the whole nation is inundated by the shrill hype of the auto dealers as the new models appear on the market — such as it is.

There has been considerable agitation in the nation's headlines recently over whether the new cars are safe. What a ridiculous question to have considerable agitation in the nation's headlines over. Of course modern automobiles are safe. It's when they start to move they are unsafe.

It's really a matter of viewpoint. In the average car you are just as safe as anyone who is speeding a 2-ton juggernaut of steel along a highway packed with similar vehicles driven by fuzzy-cheek teenagers, aggressive businessmen, anguished housewives, showoffs, dare-devils, drunks and creaking ancients who still say "Giddap!" when the light changes.

What do you mean by safe? It's all relative. People say "safe in bed," but think how many people die in their beds. Man, that's REAL safe!

So driving is relatively safe — hurtling along in your eminently collapsible cage of glass and steel, passing on-coming trucks with inches to spare, passing young lovers wrapped in each other's arms, weaving in and out among suicidal morons and tension-ridden businessmen.

Just don't stop suddenly — like against the bumper of a Greyhound bus going in the opposite direction. A stopped car is perfectly safe unless it was going 60 miles an hour two seconds earlier.

The Teamsters Union (which couldn't drive a team if they were paid overtime), the American Automobile Association and a Senate committee have joined hands in a search for safety standards in automobile design and manufacture. More (or less) power to 'em.

This is the "secret," of course, that nobody is willing to recognize. Speed kills. Speed does all the damage. My first federal safety regulation would be prohibiting the manufacture of any car capable of traveling more than 40 miles an hour. THERE — I said it and I'm glad! Never mind gun control — cars kill more people than guns every day.

Put a pussycat in your tank. National speed limit 40. Violators slapped with a $50 fine and lose their license for a week. Including truckers and bus drivers, the worst offenders.

It is true that a car with popout windows, caollapsible steering wheels and padded ashtrays makes things more comfy for the driver at crash time, but in the final analysis it is the driver who makes the car unsafe, Ralph Nader notwithstanding.

Unfortunately you can't legislate brains, judgment and good manners into people. There are no devices to keep a kook from changing lanes dangerously, but he's less of a menace at 40 than 70. (Miles per hour, not years.) If your car, going 65, meets another going in the opposite direction at 70, driven by a drunk or an overwrought housewife, the question of padded ashtrays is going to be purely academic.

The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our cars, but in ourselves.

Dr. Lamb

Diabetic unable to lose weight

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am borderline diabetic, 52 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall, and weight about 134 pounds. The doctor wants me to get down to 130. The latest glucose reading, without medication, on a restricted diet in the hospital was 143. Now I am on a 2000 calorie diet and find that I am so stuffed. I got permission to cut down but to keep the diet balanced. With an underactive thyroid wouldn't this be one reason I find losing weight so hard? I take 1 mg of Synthyroid daily.

DEAR READER — Your doctor is very wise in helping you to lose weight. Many mild diabetics can be controlled by diet alone, and that usually means eliminating any excess obesity and keeping the fat off thereafter.

Unfortunately, 2000 calories a day is too much for many women. You can have a balanced diet and get down to 1200 calories a day, if you need to, in order to lose weight. Send in 50 cents for The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Just send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Include a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Then take the diet to your doctor, and be sure he agrees that you can be on it.

I would like to add a word of caution. Diabetics should never go on a diet without their doctor's permission. That is especially true if the diabetic is taking insulin or medicine to lower the blood glucose. The insulin requirements are balanced against the amount of food you eat. If you cut down on your food you usually need to cut down on your insulin.

A borderline diabetic not on medicine does not have this problem.

A similar situation exists regarding exercise, but is more often neglected. Exercise burns up calories and lowers blood sugar. Unusual exercise may decrease the insulin requirements or increase the food requirements to avoid an insulin reaction. A diabetic needs to live a fairly regulated life if he is to use a regular, constant amount of medicine for his blood sugar.

A regular exercise program will help you with your diet program. The whole idea is to have a daily negative balance of calories, in other words to spend more than you take in — deficit spending, if you will. There are two sides to the coin on doing that. One is to limit your calorie intake, and the other is to increase your calorie use, and exercise helps with the latter.

A low thyroid function will decrease the amount of calories that your body will use at rest. This will make losing weight more difficult. For other readers I hasten to add that many people who are overweight have normal thyroids and that is usually not the problem.

When you take thyroid medicine it will supplement the amount of thyroid hormone formed by your own gland. If you are taking enough then you should really have normal thyroid function. Incidentally, excess thyroid hormone can lead to elevated blood sugar levels, so can a variety of medicines, including diuretics used to eliminate fluid before menstrual periods and in treatment of high blood pressure of for any fluid retention problem.

The Unlucky Expert had corralled us again. He remarked, "My hand was too good. If I hadn't held the jack of spades I would have made my contract. Instead, I went down two."

"Of course East made a terrific defensive play against me, but my opponents always play that way. He took his ace of clubs and promptly placed the king of spades on the table. Now look what happened to me."

We were able to guess. Our unlucky friend assumed that East held both the king and queen of spades as part of his opening bid. Thus his jack of spades was surely going to be a winner. Therefore, he took dummy's ace of spades and instead of discarding a spade on a diamond promptly led a trump.

East went right up with his ace and led a low spade. It didn't matter what South did next. West collected tricks with his queen and 10 and followed up with the extra blow. He led his last spade.

East ruffed with the jack. South had to overruf and eventually West scored a trick with his 10 of hearts.

The answer is that he should have bid three spades with every intention of heading for a slam — probably in notrump.

Irate taxpayers planning their own 'tea party'

MENDOCINO (AP) — In an act reminiscent of the Boston Tea Party, more than 400 property owners have armed themselves with teabags they vow to send the tax collector instead of cash.

Wearing red, white and blue buttons, the Mendocino citizens crowded the Fort Bragg Junior High auditorium this week to stir up the teapot tempest in the same spirit Americans of two centuries ago acted.

The teabag tempest was brewed by 59-year-old artist Ray Rice, who said his peace of mind was detonated by "a 100 per cent rise in property taxes. Some have had a 1,000 per cent rise."

Rice helped distribute the teabags Tuesday night to "people who live here and who are trying to raise families and are literally being taxed out of their homes.

"We hope that by sending in tea bags instead of taxes we can get someone to listen to us," he said.

At the Mendocino County seat in Ukiah, assistant county assessor Arthur Church said he thought the protestors were "indicating their displeasure with high taxes. I can only say taxes are high everywhere, the same as San Francisco. My own taxes have gone up too." too."

The teabag revolt can only result in penalties that will raise the taxes yet higher, with the prospect of property loss later on, he said. Church noted the protestors "can be delinquent for five years, then the property will be deeded to the state."

Rice said some old folks in this picturesque old lumbering town 150 miles north of San Francisco have an annual income of $1,500, while their property taxes are $1,000, pegged to $2.37 per hundred of assessed valuation.

Beth Bosk, a leader in the tax revolt, said she hoped a flood of teabags would "wipe out the county contingency fund and force them (the county) to go to the state for aid."

"Then maybe," Mrs. Bosk added, "when the state takes a look at the situation something will be done to get some economy in county government and do something about these assessments."

She and her husband and their five children, their chickens, rabbits, goats, geese and peacocks live on property they bought six years ago when the tax was $262. The next year it was $409 and this year it's $1,029, she said.

Acting county tax collector Irene Lang said she had no idea when the teabag protest would reach full strength.

"I suppose everybody will be drinking a lot of tea around here," she said.

'Morally repulsive'

'Artist's' act draws faculty condemnation

BALTIMORE (AP)— The Faculty Senate at the University of Maryland Baltimore County has condemned as "morally repulsive" the scheduled performance of a Venice, Calif., artist who inflicts violence on himself.

The 20-17 vote climaxed a heated discussion over the scheduled appearance Nov. 24 of Christopher Burden, a 29-year-old Venice, Calif., man recently featured in Time magazine.

"I consider it self-mutilation for money," said William G. Rothstein, a sociologist who introduced the motion to condemn Burden's appearance.

The artist, who will be paid $725 for his UMBC appearance, has in recent years crawled naked through broken glass strewn on a Lywg lslq, hnr-nailed himself to the roof of a Volkswagen while the car ran for two minutes; had an assistant shoot him in the arm with a .22-caliber pistol; been purposely kicked down two flights of concrete stairs in front of an audience, and attempted to electrocute himself.

Burden appears with no prior idea of what he will do and performs a "bodywork" after "casing the joint," according to a UMBC professor familiar with his work.

"I have never seen the senate this interesting," the same professor said of the spirited debate that preceded the close vote.

Rothstein said the faculty debate "split over the issue of free speech versus the moral elements involved."

Herbert Blau, dean of the arts and humanities who issued the invitation to Burden, said the artist is "not a freak" and represents an "important tendency in contemporary art."

Although Blau said he had "very mixed feelings myself over what Burden does," he added a number of renowned artists in recent years have "made themselves the subject of their performance."

Blau said a recent characterization of Burden by Oui magazine as "the Evel Knievel of art" was not a bad one.

"An entire culture supports Evel Knievel, which permits Burden to reflect on the character of that culture...He makes himself the explicit subject of the sort of violence we inflict on each other."

A crucial question next Tuesday, according to Blau, is "whether you can separate a moral attitude from an aesthetic attitude."

Attempts to reach Burden proved unsuccessful.

Sees possible class conflict for Americans

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Class conflict over social needs could break out in the United States someday, according to a member of the Federal Council on Aging.

The Rev. Msgr. Charles Fahey, director of Catholic Charities in Syracuse, N.Y., said there will be 30 million people over the age of 65 by the year 2,000 as a result of disease control.

But being old in the American culture is viewed unfavorably by the young, he said, and "there could be a clash in the future between the classes."

Skeletons identified

LOS ANGELES (AP)— The skeletons of two men found in the wreckage of a charred pickup truck in the Messenger Flats area of Angeles National Forest have been identified.

Authorities said Monday the bodies were those of Brand Bullock, 23, of Sunland, and Richard H. Roche, 28, of La Crescenta.

Fraternization major issue, says ex-Marine lieutenant

SOUTHBURY, Conn. (AP) — Mary Niflis, a former Marine lieutenant accused of having sex with six enlisted men, says the U.S. military needs a clear, evenly-applied interpretation of fraternization.

She says rules against socializing between officers and enlisted personnel are not enforced uniformly on all Marine bases and "the biggest question of new people coming into the military is 'What is fraternization?' "

One of the allegations which forced her to request that she be allowed to resign under honorable conditions was that she fraternized with enlisted men. Her request was approved Nov. 7 and she was discharged Nov. 10.

She had been stationed at the Marine Corps Air Station in Yuma, Ariz. and arrived Wednesday at her parents' house here, where she plans to spend several weeks.

Mrs. Niflis, who is 23 and divorced from a man she met in basic training, said in a telephone interview she plans to look for a job now that her hopes for a possible Marine career have died.

But she's concerned that publicity about her case may hurt her chances.

If she doesn't get a job with a good opportunity for advancement "then I'm going to be hopping around at different McDonald's stores begging for jobs for the rest of my life. That's not too pleasant a thought," she said.

She said she hasn't ruled out future legal action against the Marine Corps.

She claimed the Corps discriminated against her because it did not charge the six enlisted men she allegedly had sex with at the base. She refused to say whether that allegation was true.

Mrs. Niflis said a decision on legal action will not be made before Congressional investigations requested by her mother, Jean Rickard, go further.

She added that after she was told of the charges in July she was isolated from other officers and told to report to her base job with reading material because there would not be enough work to keep her busy. In her last four weeks in the Marines, she was given less than five hours of work per week, she said.

"They put so much hardship on me I sort of sat back and took it," she said. "I was so close to it I don't know what my feelings are."

Mrs. Niflis said the military should not intrude on the private life of its officers and enlisted persons if it doesn't interfere with their military duties. She claimed she did nothing privately that hurt her military performance.

Rules against fraternization may be justified during wartime, she said.

"It's easier to send someone who you know only as a rank to do that dirty job rather than a friend," she said. "In peacetime, if your friendships and associations don't interfere with your duties...then I see no objection to it."

A court martial, which had been scheduled for this month, "would have brought this issue of fraternization out in the open. The military would have had to take a public stand on it.

"Discrimination and fraternization are important enough issues that a stand should be taken" by those enforcing military rules, she said.

Mrs. Niflis claimed that after the allegations were made against her she was told she could not act in an officer's capacity.

She said she was barred from socializing with other officers or going near the officers' club, "probably about the only place you can go in Yuma where . . . you don't have to worry about a man coming up to you who is an enlisted man."

She said she was permitted to eat with enlisted personnel in their dining facility but "realized it was opening me and the people I knew over there to charges of fraternization."

She said she ate most of her meals in her room.

Her mother suspected the military was trying to bolster its fraternization case by allowing her to eat with enlisted personnel.

"She'd been treated as guilty before she was proven guilty," said Mrs. Rickard, 66.

"I think they thought they could railroad Mary. I think they wanted to make an example of Mary," she added.

Mrs. Rickard said military officials are prejudiced against women and don't want them in the Marines.

She said her daughter wanted to join the Marines since her high school days and was commissioned a second lieutenant in May 1974 upon graduation from LeMoyne College in Syracuse, N.Y. She began a scheduled three-year tour of active duty the following August.

"She was kind of starry-eyed. She believed all the things the recruiters said about equal opportunity, equal justice, equal treatment," Mrs. Rickard said. "She's no longer starry-eyed. She's completely disillusioned."

Norway planes chase Soviets

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Norwegian fighter planes took to the air today and forced back three Soviet reconnaisance planes that violated Norwegian air territory "somewhere in north Norway," the Defense Ministry said.

The Norwegian government said it had sent a strong note of protest to the Soviet government.

The incident followed an escalation of Soviet air and naval activities near the Norwegian coastline in connection with the present NATO maneuvers in the North Sea. The ministry said the fighter planes that drove the Soviets back to international air space were from the military airbase at Bodoe.

Principality

Slightly smaller than the District of Columbia, the principality of Liechtenstein on the Upper Rhine between Austria and Switzerland has been independent since 1868. It received independence when the German Confederation was dissolved in that year, but remained in economic union with Austria until 1918. Since 1920, Switzerland has administered Liechtenstein's posts, customs and foreign affairs.

Notorious N.Y. prison lives up to its reputation

WASHINGTON — We smuggled a reporter last week into one of the nation's most forbidding, impenetrable prisons — the 130-year-old, maximum security Clinton Correctional Facility just below the Canadian border in rural New York.

Inmates had complained to us that they had been beaten, hosed down, harassed and subjected to degrading regulations such as repetitive rectal searches.

Clinton's 71-year-old superintendent, James Edwin LaVallee, known on the inside as the "godfather," told us the charges are "the standard kind of sympathy-arousing complaints."

He denied anything improper was happening inside his prison. "Actually," he said, "it's a pretty nice place, pretty well run."

To find out for ourselves, we sent a reporter, Terry Repak, into Clinton. We arranged with New York Assemblywoman Marie Runyon to appoint her as a staff advisor and to take her on an inspection tour. It's the only way a reporter can get an inside view of New York's most feared and formidable prison.

Repak, who has toured other state prisons for the American Bar Association's Correctional Reform Committee, found Clinton the most depressing and degrading place she had ever visited.

Within the massive gray walls, more than 2,000 sullen inmates are crowded in dark, musty cellblocks. They sleep with roaches in their bedsprings, bed bugs in their mattresses and an open toilet two feet from their heads.

The heavy iron doors slam so fast behind them that prisoners complained of getting their arms caught. For exercise, they congregate in a dreary asphalt courtyard the size of a grade school playground.

Prisoners in the disciplinary cellblock, the infamous Unit 14, nicknamed "the box," complained of physical and psychological brutality. They told of beatings, harassments and hosings. Last month a convicted murderer, Wilfredo Sostre hanged himself from the overhead pipes after 18 months in "the box."

Runyon and Repak insisted upon talking to inmates from the notorious cellblock. Typical was the report of Roosevelt Williamson, a 24-year-old black youth, who had spent six months in Unit 14.

Because he had agreed to the interview, he said, the guards hassled him and compelled him to bend over for a prolonged rectal search. "Bend over further, we can't see good enough," they taunted him.

He eventually appeared for the interview, his hands shackled to a belt at his waist by steel cuffs. His devotions as a Sunni Muslim, he said, had landed him in Unit 14. He would spread a sheet on the floor five times a day for prayers. His sheet and other religious materials were seized as "contraband," and he was dumped into "the box" for protesting.

Because he is forbidden by his religion to use a razor, the young Muslim had a shadow of a beard, which was taken as a sign of dissent. Last month his family was turned away after a long journey from New York City, he charged, because he allegedly hadn't shaved. Three days later, he was dragged from his cell and shot with the knockout drug thorazin. When he came to, he had been clean-shaven.

Showering was a humiliating ordeal for the slight, 120-pound Williamson. "You walk out naked, backwards, in the middle of 10 or 12 big white guards who laugh at you," he alleged. Rather than put up with the derision, he bathed and washed his clothes in the toilet beside his bed.

After 60 days in "the box," he appeared before the superintendent's advisory committee to get his disciplinary sentence reviewed. "The whole way back from the meeting," he said, "the guards were stepping on the backs of my sneakers. I was scared, you know, and when I got back in my cell . . . then they jumped me."

Elsewhere in the prison our reporter found no evidence of physical abuse. But those who became active in educational or civil rights programs encountered other forms of intimidation.

"You may not get outrightly knocked in the head," said one, "but you'll lose privileges or get tripped on the rules."

Another put it this way: "We're mentally smothered here. A man is not permitted to think for himself but leaves here so brainwashed he can't function unless he hears a billy club rap on the bars."

Inmate Tivis Hawkins, for example, was reprimanded by a guard for taking his book into the mess hall. When he proved there was no rule against this, the angry guard trumped up another charge and had Hawkins thrown into a keep-lock cell for 14 days.

Inmates complained it takes extraordinary symptoms before they are given medical attention. Several who were interviewed pointed out the scales on the sides of their mouths from Vitamin C deficiency. Yet the doctors merely coated the sores with camphor.

Conditions inside Clinton, we concluded, violate the Constitutional rights of the inmates. The Constitution guarantees that they won't be subjected to "cruel and unusual punishments."

Footnote: Most of the inmates' charges were confirmed by prison officials who were questioned privately by our reporter. The deputy superintendent, Patrick McGann, categorically denied most of the charges and then referred us to the state penal system for comment. A spokesman said Commissioner Benjamin Ward "is concerned" about the charges and will investigate them. "We always welcome any information about any allegations," said the spokesman.

The Battle of Monmouth was the last major battle fought in the north, revealing an American army able to meet the British on even terms. When British Gen. Sir Henry Clinton abandoned Philadelphia and headed for the New Jersey coast with 10,000 men, Washington and 14,000 men followed. They met on the fields around Monmouth Courthouse, N.J., on June 28, 1778, in the longest sustained action of the war and on the hottest day of the year. The World Almanac recalls.

RESTAURANT AND NIGHT LIFE

"LOS TILENES" — The happy sounds coming from the merry music makers at Joe Parker's La Paloma, 2975 Foothill Blvd., La Verne, help make dining at this popular restaurant a joyous occasion. The restaurant's pleasant atmosphere and delicious Mexican foods make La Paloma a favorite of many in the Valley and beyond.

WELCOME TO OUR PLACE — Mr. and Mrs. Monte Radlovic (right), owners of The Castle, welcome friends and customers to their restaurant located at 540 E. Foothill Blvd., Pomona. The Castle is comfortable and cozy (particularly the tower alcoves) and features the talented duo "Denver and West" on weekends.

GARTH "WOODY" ELLWOOD

Several exciting things are happening on the Restaurant and Night Life scene this week, and I want to talk about a couple of events I'm aware of. I want to stress the phrase, "that I'm aware of," because, contrary to popular thought, newspaper people do NOT automatically know everything that's going on. Somebody has to tell them. So, if you guys and gals in the restaurant business have some news our readers would be interested in, just call out my name.

Buzz Siler, et al, is doing great things with the former Department of Motor Vehicles building on 7th in Upland. His new "Cat & Fiddle" restaurant-night club opened last Tuesday night to a jammed crowd of Siler faithful. (I first became aware of Buzz when he and his brother, Rick, comprised "The Siler Brothers" at Ontario Motor Speedway's Victory Circle Restaurant. More recently he's gained a large following as a single at the Beef 'n Barrel.) "Cat & Fiddle" is packed with memorabilia and promises to gain favor among Buzz's many fans in the Valley. (In fact, I'm sure that YOU will enjoy your next visit to this former DMV building more than your last!)

Another new restaurant in the Valley is "Oliver's," a charming and tastefully appointed English eating house-pub at 1869 West Foothill in Upland. Formerly "Boudines," the transformation is remarkable. Proprietors Mike Coss and John Westwood have styled "Oliver's" along the lines of an authentic English dinner house with everything from menu to manners carrying out the theme beautifully. John fell in love with things English during his Air Force days there, and has brought some of England home to Upland for us all to enjoy. (Incidentally, don't flirt the delightfully English accented hostess, though. She's something else John brought home with him . . . his wife, Heather.)

You'll notice a new feature in WEEKEND! today . . . the Chef's Choice on page 19. I'm in debt to Bill Rudnick at Orlando's for his Potatoe Dumpling recipe, an honest-to-God scoop for WEEKEND! A number of people have been after him for this exclusive recipe over the years, but he hadn't parted with it . . . until now. We feel honored that he's allowed WEEKEND! to let you in on the secret of this favorite dish. Incidentally, we've learned that Orlando's has been nominated by the Restaurant Writer's Association of Southern California for inclusion in their "Best American Foods" awards category. This popular restaurant is certainly deserving, and Bill Rudnick and his crew (82 employees, would you believe?) deserve congratulations.

AROUND AND ABOUT

. . . La Paloma was splitting at the seams with weekend diners last Friday evening. The food was worth the wait, though, and the 3-piece group, "Los Tilenes," lent an air of authenticity to the experience with their Mexican ballads. The incongruity of their parading from room to room between stints at individual tables playing "It's a Small World After All" provided a chuckle. (Love musicians with a sense of humor!)

. . . The pace was feverish, the business brisk, when I dropped in on the new Greene's North in Claremont. Co-owner Rich Kinney was keeping things moving in the new delicatessen located in the Stater Bros. Center at Towne & Foothill.

. . . The lack of a formal (?) dance floor at The Depot in Claremont doesn't seem to inhibit anyone. "Track 1" pulls 'em out of their seats and turns 'em on. The young 6-piece group just got together four months ago and are really starting to get it together.

. . . The crowd was a little older but no less enthusiastic at The Castle. In fact, several couples there demonstrated a dancing endurance many "youngsters" would be proud to possess! Fun comes in all ages.

. . . By the way, you CAN enter John Spellman's Taco Kitchen by the front door. A sign posted during the day for P-B's benefit asking us to use the back door was inadvertently left on the front door, causing evening patrons to enter through the kitchen with puzzled expressions as they dutifully followed instructions.

I noticed in last week's issue that Holiday Inn of Ontario kinda got the jump on everyone in the annual run-for-the-turkey day crowd with their family style fixings. Made me realize Thanksgiving Day IS just around the corner. Time to make plans now. (Didn't I just do that a couple months back? Was it really a year ago already?)

POTATOE DUMPLINGS
ORLANDO'S — POMONA

Dumplings

1 egg
½ tsp. salt
2½ cups flour
¾ cups water

Add flour slowly to combined liquid, then mix and kneed to smooth dough consistency.

Potatoe Filler

3 lbs. potatoes (boil & mash)
4 oz. butter
1 onion (small, chopped & sauteed in butter)
½ lb. cheddar cheese (blend with cooked hot potatoes)
¼ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. white pepper

Making Dumplings: Roll out dough ⅛" thick on floured board, then use cookie cutter or can to cut out round pieces of dough. Put filler (approx. 1 tsp.) in center of dough, moisten edge with water and fold dough over potatoe filler, pressing down with a fork, forming a half moon shape.

Cooking Dumplings: Boil slightly salted water and cook dumpling about 5 to 7 minutes, or until they float on top of water.

UMM, GOOD! — Orlando's owner, Bill Rudnick, samples the days' Potatoe Dumplings and gives his approval. He feels the personal touch given by dumpling maker Suzanne Colby adds to the homemade quality of this specialty of the house. (Recipe in Chef's Choice.)

Delta band plans free concert

The Mississippi Delta Blues Band will give a free dinner time concert at Pitzer College tonight from 6 to 7:30.

The concert will be held in the dining hall of McConnell Center.

Currently on a tour of West Coast colleges, the Mississippi Delta Blues Band features musicians on harmonica, guitar, drums and bass. The group will spotlight Tennessee, a musician well-known in Southern jazz circles.

Leonard Harper, dean of student activities at Pitzer, describes the group as a "living celebration of the Bicentennial" because they perpetuate the history and tradition of a people through classic folk blues.

Three-in-one plays slated for New York

LOS ANGELES (AP) — On Sunday, Dec. 7, the Broadway theater will witness an unprecedented event: the premiere of three plays, each complete in itself but each concerning events on a wild weekend of three couples in the English countryside.

The plays are "Table Manners," "Living Together" and "Round and Round the Garden." Written by Alan Ayckbourn under the generic title of "The Norman Conquests," the plays have been a London hit for more than a year. They are getting their American debut in Los Angeles at the Ahmanson Theater of the Music Center in a seven-week run prior to New York.

The American cast consists of Richard Benjamin, Paula Prentiss, Ken Howard, Estelle Parsons, Barry Nelson and Carole Shelley. Eric Thompson, who directed the plays here and in London, inquired of the players: "Do they know what they are getting into?"

"I'm not sure we realized what was involved," says actor Benjamin, 37. "But we have learned. We're like mountain climbers; we've all become tougher because of the experience."

"It has been demanding physically," says Benjamin's wife, Paula Prentiss, 36. "But it is a pleasant kind of discipline. It enhances your life style."

The Benjamins were interviewed at the Beverly Hills home they share with son Ross, 19 months. It is a house once occupied by silent film stars Vilma Banky and Rod La Roque, and friends presented the Benjamins with photographs of the once-famous couple. Although they are midway in the play's run here, Paula and Richard are still studying from their massive scripts.

"This is the first week that we will have been doing all three of the plays," explained the slender, now-bearded Benjamin. "It has been an enormous job learning them, but also rewarding. We can now see insights from the third play that help us in the understanding of the other two."

"This is the first time since Aug. 18 that we haven't been in rehearsal," Miss Prentiss added. "We started by rehearsing all three plays for four weeks, then we worked for two weeks on the first play ('Table Manners'). As we were playing one, we rehearsed the others."

Although the plays revolve around Norman's attempts to conquer the three ladies, the six parts are almost equal, the Benjamins believe.

"Each character has his 'flash,'" said Miss Prentiss, the lanky, low-voiced comedienne of 1960s MGM. "It's a wonderful cast, with everyone trying to help each other."

"There is no way that any of us could try to steal scenes, even if we were inclined," said Benjamin. "The other person would get back at you instantly in the next scene."

The "Norman Conquests" scripts were first sent to Miss Prentiss, who was entranced with them. Benjamin was less convinced until he was filming "The Sunshine Boys" with George Burns and Walter Matthau. The wife of director Herb Ross — dancer Nora Kaye — had seen the plays in London and told Benjamin, "You must do them."

Producer Robert Fryer sent the Benjamins to London for a weekend to view the plays, and they became committed. They will be tied to the shows until next June 30 — provided the New York critics approve. At least one of them is on a spot — all-important Clive Barnes of the New York Times.

"It was he who suggested in his London review that all three plays should open on the same day and night," said Benjamin. "Fryer asked all of us in the cast if we would go along with it, and we agreed."

Movie classics slated

Film classics of D. W. Griffith and Charles Chaplin will be shown in the second of the American Image Film Festival Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the Claremont School of Theology.

The series is presented by Claremont Bicentennial Performing Arts Committee in cooperation with the School of Theology's Arts Film Council. The screening will be in the Mudd Communications Building.

The films to be shown are Chaplin's "Gold Rush" and Griffith's "A Corner in Wheat," "New York Hat" and "The Lonedale Operator."

Admission is $1.50 for a single performance or $10 for the 10 series festival which will run through March. Tickets are available at France Paul Travel Service and at the door.

VIOLINIST — Henry Szeryng, one of the world's top-ranking violinists in a career spanning 40 years and five continents, will make his first appearance at the Ambassador Auditorium in Pasadena Dec. 3 and 4 at 8:30.

Quintet concert slated

The La Verne College Music Department and the Encounter Series will present the Claremont Brass Quintet in concert at 8 p.m. Sunday in Founders Hall Auditorium.

Quintet members are David Evans and Steven Marcussen, trumpets; Maureen Rochetto, French horn; Alvin Veeh, trombone, and Anthony Myatt, tuba. They will perform works by Bach, Pezel, Gabrieli, Cheetham, Ewald and Schmidt.

Evans is director of instrumental music at La Verne College. He also teaches trumpet for the USC ISOMATA summer camps and has performed with orchestras from San Diego to Santa Barbara.

Marcussen currently performs with the USC Wind Orchestra and the American Youth Symphony.

Old prayer book to be exhibited

A family prayer book, 148 years old, will be among the exhibits at the Gun, Indian and Wild West Show today through Sunday at the Great Western Exhibit Center.

The prayer book, published in 1823, was the personal property of famed gunmaker Samuel Colt of Hartford, Conn. His name is inscribed on the front cover in gold block letters and his authenticated signature appears seven times throughout the book.

Ted Harp, a former reporter and photographer for the Ontario Daily Report, will be at the Great Western exhibit, featuring his Victorian Photographique Gallery. Harp produces photos similar to the daguerrotype or tintype pictures of yesteryear. His pictures are of folks attending fairs, carnivals and holiday celebrations.

The daguerrotype process, the first modern photography, was invented in 1839 by the Frenchman Louis Jacques Mande Daguerre. Harp uses a Polaroid camera on a tripod, two electronic flashes and his own secret process to recreate the daguerrotypes. It takes less than five minutes from start to finish.

Hundreds of weapons and a wild west show featuring equestrian acts, cavalry, cowboys, Indians and rough riders will also be part of the show.

Rotten movie fun to watch

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Every now and then I see a TV movie I know is rotten but still find fun to watch because it moves quickly, has much ripe dialogue, is highly sentimental and even funny in spots.

Such was "Love Story" and such is "The Legend of Valentino," a two-hour TV movie ABC is foisting on America Sunday night. It's what you'd call a hoot movie. You'll hoot at it while enjoying it.

ABC describes the flick as "a romantic fiction based on the life and myth of Rudolph Valentino, the screen's first and most famous male sex symbol." If you don't know who he was, ask Grandma.

The film, written by Mel Shavelson, is a well-constructed yarn about the poor, handsome Italian immigrant who rose to fame and funds in silent films only to die at age 31, at the height of his fame and $500,000 in debt.

The acting is first-rate, with Franco Nero in the title role, Suzanne Pleshette as the cynical, heart-of-gold scriptwriter who gets him started, Judd Hirsch as his cynical, wise-cracking publicity man, and Yvette Mimieux as a fiercely ambitious set designer who married him only to further her Hollywood career, then divorced him.

The opening scene is of Valentino's empty mansion, with Pleshette recalling off-camera the dreams that died with Valentino, including his long desire to have his own orange grove.

The grove bore fruit, she sighs, but "he never smelled the blossoms."

Yes, indeed. Then we get down to the beginning of his career, which starts when Valentino, broke, hungry and with no aim other than survival, tries to burglarize the script-writer's home late at night.

She catches him, calls the cops, then changes her mind after the cops rough him up. She's intrigued by this good-looking footpad and she and Hirsch wangle him an acting job that leads to stardom.

Amid the ensuing proceedings are references to Valentino's distress at rumors he was a homosexual, plus such great lines as "this is Hollywood. We all eat dirt here because it pays so well."

Yeah, it sounds pretty bad. But the scenes are so well-crafted and the acting so crisp you'll still have fun watching this tableau of Hollywood flim-flam, sham and bittersweet love.

The fun is heightened by a really funny crack scriptwriter Shavelson slips in now and then, such as when an ailing Valentinio is beseiged in his train compartment by a groupie while on a publicity tour.

She wants to make love; he only wants to be left alone and gently tries to get her to leave. Whereupon she gets hysterical and impugns his virility. The crusher comes when she says his movies stink.

Groans he: "You work for the New York Times?"

The closing scenes are properly sentimental — he realizes true love too late — but they're also well done. So watch the movie. High art it ain't, but it's a professional, entertaining piece of work.

Officer wins 1976 Cadillac

Larry Kidney, senior patrol officer with the Pomona Police Department, will be featured on the "Let's Make A Deal" television game show Saturday night.

Walnut students show little change in tests

Student achievement in the Walnut School District has remained constant during the past three years except for minor year-to-year fluctuations, according to Supt. David L. Brown.

He based this conclusion on test results for the second, third, sixth and 12 grades reported to the state Board of Education this fall.

In state testing in reading, Walnut second and third grade students maintained the same level of correct responses in 1975 as in 1974.

However, the district average dropped in relation to other districts in the state.

In the sixth and 12 grades, Walnut continues to rank among the upper 21 to 45 per cent of all districts in the state in most achievement areas. This performance level is consistent with the district staff estimate that Walnut students are a little above average in general academic ability.

Brown expressed concern about relatively low achievement in spelling and the mechanics of English among sixth and 12 grades.

A first step, already taken, toward improvement is analysis of test results to identify specific operations in which students experience the greatest difficulty.

Next steps will include consultation between curriculum and instructional personnel to see what program changes may be helpful.

SINGS HIS PRAISES — The Overtones, a contemporary Christian singing group from Southern California, will present two gospel concerts at the Montclair Plaza. The concerts will be presented on Nov. 28 from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. The singers are accompanied by an electronic piano, guitars and woodwinds.

Pot shots

Teapots tend to be low and wide because tea leaves rise and expand in hot water. Coffee grounds, on the other hand, tend to sink to the bottom of the pot, leaving the pure clean brew at the top; thus coffee pots are generally tall and narrow.

LVC offers vocational ed degree

La Verne College now offers a bachelor of science degree in vocational education.

Classes are offered during the late afternoon and evening hours as well as on weekends at locations throughout Southern California.

To earn a degree, a student must accumulate a total of 128 semester credits. Up to 36 credits will be awarded for training or work experience in the student's field of specialization, as provided by the state Swan Bill Evaluation.

Many of the degree credits are earned in liberal arts courses, including independent study. A student may transfer 70 credits from a two-year college or 96 from a four-year college, but all such work is given careful evaluation.

CIF football playoffs open

Progress Bulletin Sports Editor

Gary Davis SLO leader

It isn't often when a school gets to play its mother. But that's the case since the Pomona campus was a branch of SLO until gaining its independance in the late 1960s.

So far, the football series has been onsided in SLO's favor. The Mustangs under Coach Joe Harper won the six games until the Pomonans earned a 14-14 tie last year.

It's safe to say that Pomona is now in the same class as SLO. In Andy Vinci's two seasons in Pomona, he has achieved respectability and victory over SLO would definitely turn the corner for prestige.

But SLO must be favored again Saturday night mainly because of the location.

SLO is extremely tough at home. The Mustangs are 4-0 at home this season and 1-4 on the road.

It's a different experience at SLO. Being the only four-year college located on the coast between Thousand Oaks and San Jose, SLO has a captive audience.

Here in Pomona, we have five college and three junior college football teams within a 20-mile radius plus Los Angeles' many attractions are less than an hour away.

To beat SLO Saturday night, the Pomonans must stop tailback Gary Davis, a product of Pomona's Garey High.

School records

Davis has already broke the SLO season rushing record with 1,090 yards on 243 carries — another mark — and needs only 25 more to become the school's all-time career runner.

During his three-year career, the tailback from Pomona has accounted for 2,214 rushing yards and 26 touchdowns on a 479 carries. He is going after the record of 2,238 yards set by Alex Bravo in 1953.

Davis has scored 13 touchdowns this season to tie another SLO record. Obviously, the Pomonans hope he doesn't break that mark Saturday night.

"Our offensive line is much more mature this year," Davis said in explaining his good season. "We know each other much better."

"It's a big thing for me," Davis said. "This is my last game so I want to go out with a win."

Like its Pomona brothers, SLO has had a frustrating season. A few breaks would have improved the 5-4 record.

"Our record is deceiving," he says. "We have a tough team."

It has to be frustrating for Pomona to face a star player from its backyard with the archrival.

'Great experience'

"I came to SLO because I wanted to get away," Davis said. "It has been a great experience for me and I feel fortunate to have had this opportunity."

Davis likes the atmosphere at SLO.

"This is a great place for a player," he said. "The people here are very interested in the team. Everybody is behind you."

"My parents have watched every game since I've been here," he said. "They even took their vacation so they could attend the game this year at Boise, Ida. I think a lot of them for their great support."

La Verne and Chino are the football capitals of the valley. La Verne already has champions in Bonita and Damien highs while La Verne College can join the group with a win Saturday. Chino can brag about Chino and Don Antonio Lugo highs.

Bonita grads are doing their thing. Allen Carter led the Patriots in rushing last Sunday with 53 yards on 13 carries. Ray Anderson returned a punt 65 yards for a touchdown in Stanford's 33-30 win over Oregon. Dave Shamblin caught three passes to help undefeated Nebraska whip Iowa State, 52-0.

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Seven area high schools swing into CIF playoff action tonight, knowing that if they lose there's no tomorrow as far as the 1975 football season is concerned.

The valley has at least one entry in each of the four CIF divisions, which will make things interesting — IF the squads can survive opening night jitters in the always rugged playoff competition.

Going at it in the 3-A bracket tonight will be San Antonio League teams Chino, Damien and Upland. In the 2-A are Hacienda League residents Bonita and Walnut; 4-A competitor will be Citrus Belt League trichamp Chaffey and 1-A entry will be Ontario Christian of the Olympic League.

Chino, who finished tied with Damien for the SAL title, will carry a 8-1 season record and a six-game win streak into its game tonight at Chino High vs. Ramona (8 p.m. kickoff). Ramona (6-3 on the year) was a runnerup finisher in the Ivy League.

Damien's Spartans will also be at home, as they host Arlington at 8 p.m. Arlington, with a 6-3 season mark, is also a runnerup from the Ivy League, where Colton won the league crown.

Upland will be on the road, as the Scots face a rugged foe in unbeaten La Serna (9-0), the Whitmont League titlist.

The Upland-La Serna tilt will be played at California High, which is located at 9800 Mills Ave. in Whittier. The game is set to start at 8 p.m.

Also in an 8 p.m. kickoff is Chaffey, as the Tigers will entertain Kennedy High of Buena Park (8-1 on the year) at Graber Field. The other Ontario-based school in the playoffs, Ontario Christian, will travel to 29 Palms High to play 29 Palms this evening at 8 p.m. in a 1-A playoff outing.

Chino has assumed the favorites' role over visiting Ramona High of Riverside, but the Cowboys cannot afford to be overconfident. The Rams are riding a streak of their own, having won five straight after a rocky 1-3 start.

The Cowboys will turn loose Rick Riedel again, as the elusive miniback went over the 1,000 yard mark in rushing last week, the only prep runner to reach that mark this fall. Also keying the Chino offense will be quarterback Chris Pruitt, while Larry Trujillo, Art Carbajal and Dan Hobbs round out the Cowboy offensive backfield.

The Chino defensive eleven, which has been very effective all season, could be in for its sternest test of the year tonight against Ramona. The Rams have two fine runners in Michael Warrick and Joaquir Reclosado and a talented quarterback in Matt Ryan.

Fans who can't make it to Chino High to see the game in person (a full house is expected) can listen to the game action live on Radio KSOM, 1510 on the AM dial.

Damien won't have it easy either, as the Spartans face another Riverside-based team in Arlington.

USC cagers go to Forum

LOS ANGELES — USC's basketball team will play its first game ever at the Forum on Monday, Dec. 1, when the Trojans host St. Mary's in an 8 p.m. contest.

The game was originally scheduled for Friday, Nov. 28, at the Sports Arena but the date was switched because of the USC-UCLA football game at the Coliseum on that date.

Pomona boxer on TV fight card

CHASING IT DOWN

Bobby Poaster of Claremont-Mudd, left, and Pomona-Pitzer's Tom Moore go after the ball in Thursday's District III soccer title game. Moore won it for Pomona-Pitzer, 1-0.

Moore boots 'Hens to title

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Correspondent

Tom Moore's goal at 34:55 of the final period gave Pomona-Pitzer a 1-0 victory over Claremont-Mudd and the NAIA District III soccer championship Thursday afternoon in a game played at the losers' field.

Moore took a pass from Paul Suter 10 feet from the C-M net and blasted the ball past goalie Peter Colius to give the Sagehens the District III title for the second time in three years.

The win also gave the visitors the advantage in the season series between the two schools. The 'Hens (15-3) prevailed, 1-0, in their first meeting of the year but the Stags (14-2-2) won the regular season finale by a 2-0 score.

The 'Hens will now host District I champion Simon Fraser University of Vancouver, B.C., with the winner advancing to the national NAIA finals in North Carolina. The game will begin Sunday at 1:30 p.m. at Merritt Field in Claremont.

The Stags totally dominated the early going Thursday, as the first 30 minutes were played primarily in Pomona-Pitzer's end of the field.

But the momentum shifted just before halftime and the 'Hens were on the offensive for most of the final 45-minute period. While Claremont-Mudd finished the game with nine shots on goal to the 'Hens' five, the Stags managed only three in the second half.

The Stags mounted their most sustained attack on P-P goalie Brad Kraft midway through the first period, but the losers missed three chances to score in a two-minute span.

The first lost opportunity came when Claremont Mudd's Roberto Munoz centered the ball to Conrad Creasey just in front of the Hens' goal but Creasey had trouble with the pass and could not get off a kick.

Twice within a single minute, however, Suter broke away with the ball and booted it into the Stag net, only to have the score nullified by an offsides call.

After Moore ended the 'Hens' frustration with his winning kick, the P-P backs did not allow the Stags a shot on goal during the final 10 minutes of the contest.

Coach Charles Seward, in his first year at Pomona-Pitzer, said after the game that he thought the player of the match was C-M halfback Ariel Glucklich.

"There were a lot of fine players out there but everyone seemed to be too tense," said Seward. "If I had to single someone out for us it would be Suter. He played very well."

Seward was restrained in his optimism about the 'Hens' going to North Carolina. "Traditionally the team that has beaten Westmont has gone to the Nationals," he said. (Pomona-Pitzer stopped Westmont, 1-0, Monday to reach the district finals.) "But Simon Fraser is supposed to be really excellent so we're not looking ahead to the Nationals yet.

"But Westmont and Claremont-Mudd are certainly two of the best teams in our district and beating them both in the same week is really quite something."

All Petty needed was a new engine

By the Associated Press

A change of engines was all the tonic Richard Petty needed in Thursday's practice for Sunday's running of the Times 500 at Ontario Motor Speedway.

Petty had earlier left the track when his engine began smoking after running only a few laps. When he returned, he raced around the 2½ mile oval in an unofficial clocking of 151.642 m/p/h.

And ol' A.J. was in top form. Foyt, a USAC man, complained to NASCAR officials that their best drivers were hogging the track.

"It seems like this happens every time I come to a NASCAR race," Foyt said. "What's bad is it's some of their best drivers. There they are going 30 miles an hour in the fast groove, and they have a great big apron to run on when they're goin' slow."

Petty's first run aroused excitement because the engine began smoking after only a few laps. He slowed down and drove back to his garage where his crew changed engines.

"Something broke in the valve train," Petty said and grinned. "That's about the fourth time we've had trouble before a race started and we won the other three."

More than 50 drivers were out Thursday. A total of 68 cars are at OMS with Petty, Foyt, Allison, David Pearson and possibly Buddy Baker and Dave Marcis given a shot at taking the pole in today's qualifications which are slated to begin at 1 p.m.

Only the first 10 spots in the starting grid were scheduled to be filled today. The other 30 will be set in Saturday's qualifications.

Petty already has had an incredible season with 13 wins in 29 races this season. But he's never won at OMS and that's something he wants to correct Sunday.

His third place finish in the Dixie 500 in Atlanta two weeks ago pushed him over the $300,000 mark in earnings for the second time in his long and amazingly successful career.

Among the other challengers Sunday will be 1973 NASCAR champion Benny Parsons, Cale Yarborough and six-time Grand National West champ Ray Elder.

Baker, the 6-5, 230-pound giant, drove a new Ford to victory in its initial outing at Atlanta in the Dixie 500.

"Believe it or not, we had a lot of aerodynamic troubles right at first," Baker said. "The car wasn't handling right. We made a few changes on the spoilers and the car ran right."

"You have to compensate for the low bank," explained the 34-year-old Baker. "On tremendously banked tracks there are eight to 10 ways of driving a race. Out here you have to set up your car for a flat race track. When you do that, you have to go real soft on the springs to make the side bite proper."

"As drivers we are sort of like a private car owner going into a garage with a problem. We'd say the left front wheel seems a little light going into a corner or the right rear is too soft making the front end move around.

Bartow's Bruins debut tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The UCLA basketball team, which has won the NCAA title 10 times in 12 years, makes its debut under new head Coach Gene Bartow tonight.

The Bruins won the 1974-75 championship for Coach John Wooden's going away present as the mentor retired after 27 seasons at UCLA.

Bartow's first game is against the touring Australian Olympic team and the visitors come to Pauley Pavilion as the fourth stop on a West Coast tour against Pacific-8 Conference opponents.

Bartow has said he doesn't expect many changes from the Wooden style.

"Offensively I think I'm a little more power game oriented and I think we use a little more pressure man-to-man on defense," said Bartow who came to UCLA from Illinois.

Bartow plans to start four of the people who helped the Bruins win the NCAA again last year: Marques Johnson and Richard Washington at forward, Ralph Drollinger at center and Andre McCarter at guard.

The game marks the end of five weeks of practice and Bartow said, "We're ready to go against someone. After practicing for this long and participating only in scrimmages against ourselves the players are looking forward to facing an opponent in a real game."

Afterwards UCLA has a week until meeting its first collegiate opponent when the defending Pac-8 champions go against defending Big Ten champion Indiana at St. Louis, Mo.

According to NCAA rules the Indiana game is the actual season opener for the Bruins with the Australian game declared an exhibition.

But the soft-spoken Bartow said when he accepted the job that he is not competing with Wooden.

"There's no way I'm going to try to compete with John Wooden," said Bartow. "I don't think John Wooden himself could match what has happened here — 10 NCAA titles in 12 years.

UCLA has won so much that it is unrealistic to expect the incredible amount of success will continue on such a high level, Bartow said.

But, said Bartow, "I tell my assistants that if we just win them all we won't have any problems."

Cincy players earn $19,060.46

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds received 32 shares worth $19,060.46 each for winning the 1975 World Series, baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said today.

The $19,060.46 was the fourth highest individual share in World Series history, with only the checks received by the Oakland A's in 1972, 1973 and 1974 being larger.

The Boston Red Sox, who lost in the last inning of the seventh and final game, earned $13,325.87 each, with 34 members of the American League champions receiving full shares.

All 25 players on each team who were eligible for World Series checks took home their full shares. Boston players Denny Doyle, who was traded from California to Boston early in the season, and Jim Burton and Jim Willoughby, both in the minor leagues when the 1975 season started, recieved a full share of $13,325.87.

Only Cincinnati reliever Rawly Eastwick joined the Reds' roster after the start of the regular season but he came aboard before June 1 and automatically qualified for a full share. Eastwick earned his World Series check with two victories and a save in the seven-game thriller.

Postseason attendance totaled 584,531, including 308,272 from the World Series, in which four games were played in cozy Fenway Park with its seating capacity of 35,205.

Rodgers wants Ali in Montreal

CALGARY (AP) — Johnny Rodgers, star running back with the Canadian Football League's Montreal Alouettes, is working to bring a heavyweight fight to Montreal between champion Muhammad Ali and ranked contender George Foreman.

"We are negotiating right now with different people in the city," Rodgers said Thursday. "The fight definitely is going to go on, one week after the Olympics."

Rodgers said it is hoped the fight will take place at the 70,000-seat Olympic Stadium in Montreal.

Fans wonder: can TV sports binge continue?

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Sports network television is swirling into orbit on a near half-billion dollar binge, raising questions in the minds of captive armchair quarterbacks.

"How long can the present TV proliferation of baseball, football, tennis, golf and a variety of oddball sports continue?"

"Are the big sports structures—baseball and football, particularly—captives of the networks? Do the Roone Arledges, Carl Lindemanns and Bob Wusslers, in their midtown skyscraper offices, call the tune for the big events?"

Bowie Kuhn, the commissioner of baseball, was chagrined at the suggestion that it was NBC, and not Bowie Kuhn, who dictated that postponed weekend games of the recent World Series should be played at night instead of during the day.

"The commissioner's office made the decision," he said. "We switched to night basically to reach more fans

"Television represents only 10 per cent of our total revenue. We are not dependent on television for survival although we admit TV is enormously important in popularizing the game."

The commissioner's judgment on night play was justified when NBC research figures for the series showed a cumulative audience of 393,530,000 with an all-time record 75,930,000 watching the seventh game.

Kuhn said he had never considered it but, if necessary, baseball was capable of setting up its own network.

Undoubtedly so could the National Football League, which boasts the costliest and most desirable television package in sports and a sharp negotiator in Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Since becoming commissioner in 1961, Rozelle has extracted $606 million from the networks. Currently, the NFL is in the second year of a four-year contract calling for $60 million per year plus $3.5 million for the Super Bowl and $1.5 million for the Pro Bowl.

Thus, each of the 26 NFL teams is assured of a TV bonus each year exceeding $2 million. The pie is sliced 26 ways. Currently, the other major sports leagues do similarly with less money.

Baseball has just negotiated a new four-year contract with NBC and ABC for $92.8 million. The National Basketball Association is in the last year of a three-year, $27 million contract with CBS. The NCAA college football package cost ABC $15 million. NBC paid out $4.5 million to televise 90 NCAA basketball games.

In the present-day crunch of soaring prices, sky-high salaries and tight money, TV pays the freight for most, if not all, of the big sports teams. It is responsible for the multi-million-dollar contracts handed out to the Joe Namaths and Catfish Hunters. It is a source of survival.

A $42 million contract with NBC saved the old American Football League and enabled it to negotiate a merger with the National Football League. The World Football League, with no major network TV, folded.

The American Basketball Association, with such interesting personalities as Julius Irving, Artis Gilmore and David Thompson, failed to get a TV contract. The result has been loss of important franchises and a mad ef-

Trout plants

The following lakes and streams, listed by county, are scheduled for restocking this week with catchable-size rainbow trout from Department of Fish and Game hatcheries:

LOS ANGELES — Big Rock Creek, El Dorado Park Lake.
SAN BERNARDINO — Gregory Lake, Mojave Narrows.
RIVERSIDE — Cahuilla Lake, Evans Lake, Fulmor Lake, Hemet Lake, Perris Lake.
SANTA BARBARA — Cachuma Lake.
VENTURA — Casitas Lake, Upper Piru Creek.

Pheasant prospects good in desert area

Fair numbers of widely scattered pheasants can provide some good hunting in the Imperial Valley this week, following the opening of the season last Saturday.

Hunters turned out in large numbers on Saturday in Imperial and Inyo counties where pheasants provided by the Department of Fish and Game were released last week.

In the Imperial Valley, where more than 13,000 birds were released, one DFG observer said, "A few hunters got their limits early, a few went home empty handed but most hunters bagged one bird." The birds were more widely scattered than in recent years, and many escaped the opening weekend turnout of hunters. Hunters with dogs should be able to find pheasants in areas with heavy cover, according to the DFG.

In the Palo Verde Valley nearly all of the 1,600 planted birds were taken over the weekend. The number of hunters was somewhat higher than last year, and there were many limits taken. The best hunting took place in maize and cut alfalfa fields.

In Inyo County nearly all of the more than 3,000 pheasants provided by the DFG were taken over the weekend. Some of the best hunting was found in the vicinity of Manzanar and in fields east of Bishop. Remaining birds will afford some hunting, but they are widely scattered and dogs are recommended.

The pheasant season which opened throughout the state last Saturday will run through Dec. 7.

Cal tops Aussies

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The California Bears, paced by Carl Bird's 19 points, beat the Australian Olympic basketball team 91-59 in an exhibition game Thursday night.

It was the third straight loss in as many games for the Aussies on a swing around the Pacific-8 Conference that takes them to UCLA Friday night.

The Australians led 18-15 after nine minutes of play then faded, trailing 48-41 at the half and getting outscored 43-18 in the second half when Cal hit on 77 per cent of its field goal attempts, most of them layins and short jumpers.

Gene Ransom scored 16 for Cal, and Connie White and Ray Murray had 13 apiece. White was the game's top rebounder with nine.

High scorer for Australia was guard Andy Blicavs with 16, and Tony Barnett had 12.

All girls ages 8-12 who are interested in participating in a softball league are asked to contact Ron Hodges at 599-7346.

New L.A. County ocean fishing guide available

A new guide for ocean anglers, showing the best places for surf fishing, rock fishing, diving and clamming in Los Angeles County has been published by the Department of Fish and Game.

The new Ocean Fishing Map of Los Angeles County includes maps of the county coastline showing likely fishing spots, species present in different areas, information about access to public areas and a text which tells how to identify some of the most commonly caught ocean fish.

Tables in the guide list all shore fishing areas in the county, provide information on the best ways to catch 45 different kinds of ocean fish, list the artificial reefs along the county coast, tell where party-boat and skiff rental facilities are located and list public parking, camping and picnic sites.

The Los Angeles Ocean Fishing Map is the sixth in a series of such guides to be published by the Department of Fish and Game. Other guides cover Del Norte, Humboldt and Mendocino counties, Sonoma and Marin counties; San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Cruz counties; Monterey and San Luis Obispo counties; and Orange and San Diego counties.

Single copies of the Los Angeles Ocean Fishing Map, or of the other maps, can be obtained by sending a self-addressed envelope and 20 cents postage to: Ocean Fishing Map, 350 Golden Shore, Long Beach, California 90802. Send a separate large business envelope with postage for each map desired.

Big game weekend in college ranks

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio State and Nebraska, college football's top-ranked teams, put their unbeaten records and national championship hopes on the line Saturday in road games against arch rivals.

The No. 1-ranked Buckeyes, 10-0, face No. 4 Michigan, 8-0-2, at Ann Arbor with the Big Ten title and a Rose Bowl bid at stake. The Cornhuskers, 10-0 and rated No. 2, invade Norman, Okla. to meet No. 7 Oklahoma, 9-1, with the Big Eight crown and an Orange Bowl bid awaiting the winner.

California and Stanford may decide the Pacific-8 Conference championship and a berth in the Rose Bowl when they meet Saturday, but they'll have to wait a week to find out.

Three of the four traditional season-ending rivalry matchups in the Pac-8 are scheduled Saturday with Cal at Stanford in the Big Game, Washington and Washington State battle in Seattle for the Apple Cup and Oregon State visits Oregon in their annual "Civil War."

The fourth game is a week away when UCLA and Southern Cal, both idle this Saturday, face off Nov. 28. That's the meeting that decides who goes to Pasadena Jan. 1.

Both games were sold out almost before the ink was dry on the tickets and coaches Woody Hayes of Ohio State and Tom Osborne of Nebraska are beside themselves with anticipation.

"This is the greatest rivalry in college football," declared Hayes. "Our season boils down to this game and that's the way it should be."

"It'll be the best against the best," said Osborne. "I'm not even going to predict victory. I will predict there will be 100 per cent effort on our part."

The last four games in the series all have been low-scoring affairs with Ohio State getting 43 points and Michigan just 41. The loser will get a bid to the Orange Bowl as a consolation prize.

CIF playoffs open for 7 valley teams

Arlington features an outstanding passer in quarterback Tim Carter. Carter's favorite target has been wide receiver Mike Stangeland. Stangeland, a 6-1, 160-pound senior, was an all-Ivy League pass catcher this year.

The Damien defensive secondary has not really been tested this year and Carter and company figure to do just that this evening. Also pointing in Arlington's favor is the fact that the squad made it to the quarterfinals in the 2-A CIF playoffs last year. In contrast, Damien has not been in the playoffs for several years.

The Spartans are hoping for some aerial fireworks of their own from quarterback Joe Carroll, who had an off-night against Chino last week. Coach Dick Larson's crew goes into the game free of major injuries, as does Arlington.

Upland will have its hands full with La Serna, a team which boasts a powerful running attack. The Lancers' offensive backfield averages nearly 200 pounds per man, and that offense has been averaging over 30 points per contest so far, so the Scot defense will be in for a real test.

Coach Bob Holycross of the Highlanders figures he will open up his offense somewhat for La Serna, which means that quarterback Bob Dalquest will try to generate a successful passing game to go with the running of Gary Carr and Mike Rees.

Bonita has been the Cinderella team of the Hacienda League all year and the Bearcats figure to need some more magic tonight to beat a potent Sonora squad.

The Gold Raiders have averaged better than 28 points per contest this year, and have a talented offensive backfield trio in halfback Mark Kenlon, fullback Brian Greer and quarterback Jim Porter. However, defense has not been Sonora's strongpoint this year, while in contrast Bonita has had a very effective defense of late.

Walnut will be facing another team with a talented quarterback, Mission Viejo. Diablo signal caller Doug Reeves has sparkled as a runner, passer and place kicker this year, and while the Mustangs have shown they can stop the run whether their secondary can prevent Reeves' from passing effectively is open to question.

Mustang mentor Ken Gunn is another coach who believes he will have to open up his offense for the playoffs, which means that QB Kevin Loggins will put the ball in the air tonight more often than he did during the regular season.

Chaffey has drawn a rough foe in Kennedy for its playoff opener, as Kennedy is 8-1 on the year with its only loss at the hands of Foothill by a 17-14 count.

OCHS will be in for perhaps the roughest game of all, as the Knights square off against unbeaten 29 Palms. 29 Palms made it all the way to the 1-A finals last year on the strength of quarterback Kevin Tucker's abilities, and Tucker is back again this season. The Knight's defense will have to contain his passing game if they hope to pull off an upset.

TORONTO (AP) — The World Hockey Association announced on Thursday that its all-star game this season will honor the United States bicentennial by featuring a squad from U.S. WHA teams playing against a team from Canadian clubs. The game is scheduled for Cleveland, Jan. 13, 1976.

The all-star teams will be selected by sports writers and broadcasters who cover the 14 league teams. Their vote will determine 12 players for each team and another eight players will be added by each of the coaches.

Locals pace All-H.L. picks

Bonita, Royal Oak and Walnut, the Hacienda League tri-champions, dominated the All-Hacienda League grid team selections.

Roman quarterback Jim Garcia was tabbed as the Most Valuable Offensive Player while teammate Greg Grzechowiak pulled down the Most Valuable Defensive Player honors.

Only four juniors made the all-H.L. first team. They were wide receiver Greg Fenwick of Walnut, center Mark Malone of Bonita, defensive lineman Sonny LaFargue of San Dimas and linebacker Doug Gates of San Dimas. The rest of the first team were all seniors.

Fiesta Bowl leaves door open to Neb.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Fiesta Bowl seems ready to extend the olive branch and another invitation to the Nebraska Cornhuskers.

"The door is still open," Bruce Skinner, Tempe, Ariz., information director for the bowl committee, was quoted as saying in today's editions of the Kansas City Times.

The winner of Saturday's Nebraska-Oklahoma clash will represent the Big Eight Conference in the Orange Bowl in Miami, and the Fiesta Bowl had said earlier it would invite the Nebraska-Oklahoma loser to its game to play the Western Athletic Conference champs.

Barry Switzer, Oklahoma coach, had said his players would be glad to go to the Fiesta if they can't go to the Orange. But in a vote of players, the Nebraska team decided overwhelmingly to just stay home if they lose to the Sooners and can't play in the Orange Bowl.

"If Nebraska should lose the game there could be some renegotiations," Skinner told the Times in a telephone interview. "If they were receptive to coming and taking another bid, yes, we'd offer them another chance."

Tom Osborne, Nebraska coach, has said his players' vote was not meant as a slap at the Fiesta Bowl, but was a reaffirmation of the Cornhuskers' total concentration on winning the Oklahoma game.

"If the time comes and the situation arises, I'm sure we'll take another vote on it," Osborne said Thursday. "But we're not going to go any place the players don't want to go." Osborne declined to predict how a second vote might go.

". . . I don't think that helped any," Osborne said.

Jacobs tops CCAA club

Three members of Cal Poly's championship water polo team were voted to the All-California Collegiate Athletic Association team by the conference coaches.

Mark Jacobs, who scored nine of Poly's 14 goals in the championship game win over Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, was the only unanimous choice.

Other Broncos earning first team honors are Steve Nyeholt and goalie Doug Fowler. SLO placed Pete Hester and Ken Wolfe on the team while Northridge landed Larry Conery and Marc Kelly.

No decision due on Messersmith

NEW YORK (AP) — Attorney Dick Moss, representing Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Andy Messersmith at an arbitration hearing, said today no decision is expected for about a month.

The panel, which went into session here this morning to consider Messersmith's bid to become a free agent, consists of Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association; John Gaherin, representative of the club owners, and arbitrator Peter Seitz.

Moss said whatever the decision, it would affect only Messersmith and-or Dave McNally, a former Montreal Expos pitcher whose hearing is set for Monday.

"But, of course, it sets the precedent," added Moss, who pointed out that both players are seeking to become free agents under section 10a of the basic agreement between the owners and players which expires Dec. 31. Neither player signed a contract for last season.

Moss said his witnesses today included third baseman Joe Torre of the New York Mets and former major league pitcher Jim Bouton.

DENVER (AP) — Denver Spurs center J.P. LeBlanc was sold on Thursday to the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League for cash and future considerations, officials of Denver's World Hockey Association team said.

LeBlanc, a veteran of 13 years in pro hockey, scored one goal and had five assists in 15 games with the Spurs this season.

Pop Warner title games

Five Pop Warner youth football champions will be crowned Sunday when the Mt. Baldy Conference holds its annual championship games at Chaffey High's Graber Field.

Opening ceremonies at 9 a.m. open a full day of football matching division champions in five different age and weight groups.

Sunday's lineup will be: 9:30 a.m. — Jr. Pee Wee — Diamond Bar Banditos (6-0-1) vs. San Dimas/La Verne Spartans (6-0-1); 11:30 a.m. — Tiny Tot — Ontario Jets (5-1-1) vs. Upland Bandits (7-0); 1:30 p.m. — Midget — Upland Mustangs (7-1) vs. Fontana Bucks (7-1); 3:30 p.m. — Pee Wee — Pomona Sharks (8-0) vs. Upland Raiders (7-1); 5:30 p.m. — Jr. Midget — Fontana Wolves (8-1) vs. Pomona Bruins (5-3).

Jerry Campbell, who rushed for 251 yards on 11 carries in one game, paces the Sharks' potent running attack. Marc Pruitt, Brian Turner, Kitrick Taylor and Reed Smalley handle most of the running.

Offensive linemen are Vincent Diquaidi, Darrell Floyd, Terry Francis, Paul Jones, Bryant Long, Chad McCloud, Virgil Millon, Alfonso Mitchell, Eric Reyes, Lanard Wilson and Harry Wilson.

Others are Shawn Baker, Charles Buggs, Troy Davis, James Hill, David Murray, Sylvester Robinson, Steven Stalling and Duane Williams.

The tentative Bruins' offensive lineup will have Darrell Ford at quarterback with halfback Tony Burns, fullback Tony Gooden, flanker Jerry Shepard, ends Steven Thomas and Greg Miley, tackles Greg Linton and Chris Henderson, guards Lamar Hudson and Glenn Cain and center Mark Fender.

Defensive probable starters include ends Thomas and Henderson, tackles Darrell Seabrooks and Cain, guards Chris Brown and Linton, linebackers Shepard, Gooden and Hudson plus cornerbacks Miley and Lamont Hubbard.

The unscored-upon defense has been led by Ken Zimmerman, Craig Stokes and Reggie Youmans. Offensive stars are Mike Lenahan, Tom Carcelli and Jim Stretch.

Donations of $1 for adults over 14 will be asked.

MSAC to host prelims

The action will get underway at 10 a.m. Saturday morning on the MSAC course, with eight heat races on tap.

From Saturday's eight heats, the first five teams in each race will qualify for the CIF Finals, to be run Nov. 29 on the same MSAC course.

Local teams hoping to advance Saturday are Webb School in the 1-A Division, Walnut and San Dimas in the 2-A and Upland and Chino in the 3-A.

Also in competition Saturday will be some top individual runners from local schools. Joel Hope of Alta Loma will be trying to gain a berth in the 2-A finals, while Chaffey's Tim Mattison will be shooting for a berth in the 4-A competition.

Upland should have no trouble advancing into the 3-A finals but the other area squads may run into trouble, with Chino, Webb and San Dimas entering the prelims as longshots for advancement. All three of those squads were runnersup in their respective leagues.

Of the 91 schools set to race Saturday, the top squads are regarded as Edison, Costa Mesa and Foothill in the 4-A bracket, La Habra, West Covina, Upland and Salesian in the 3-A Division, University, San Clemente and Bassett in the 2-A grouping and Sherman, Bishop, Cantwell and St. Bernard's in the 1-A.

SAL announces water polo team

Upland High goalie Jim Sonner was tabbed as the Most Valuable player in the San Antonio League in balloting for the all-SAL water polo team.

The Highlanders also placed three other men on the first team, as did runnerup squad Claremont. Doug Deyoung, Daryl Musser and Jon Liffering all made the team for the Scots while goalie David McCutcheon, Steve Smith and Craig Hildebrand were the Wolfpack swimmers honored.

fort to make some sort of marriage with the NBA.

Soccer, the most popular sport in the world but not yet a great crowd-pleaser in the United States, hasn't managed to interest the networks. Hockey has similarly suffered. The National Hockey League lost its $6 million contract with NBC. TVS dropped its $1.2 million package with the World Hockey Association.

Network officials contend that hockey, like soccer, has only regional interest.

TV pays the freight for high salaries

"Hockey is the least dependent of all sports on network television," said Don Ruck, NHL executive. "The NHL has the highest saturation of its seating capacity and box office support." The networks are at some variance on exactly what is salable on the market. They all agree that the big event— the World Series, the Super Bowl, the Kentucky Derby, the Masters golf tournament, Wimbledon tennis—will continue to lure the sponsor dollar. Their ideas run different directions when they get down to the lower echelon.

Carl Lindemann, sports boss at NBC, for instance, is a strong believer in presenting events without frills. "The game is the thing," he insists. He also is a stout booster of live TV—his network does considerably more than the other two.

Bob Wussler, the young head of CBS sports, argues that sports programming must be diversified enough to appeal also to the women and the young people in the house. So he has spiced up his shows with aesthetic music numbers and pretty faces such as those of Phyllis George, a former Miss America, and skier Suzy Chaffee.

Arledge, the ABC dynamo who introduced Monday Night Football and is making gestures toward trying to monopolize the business, has a scattershot philosophy. His "Wild World of Sports" jumps from a bus-leaping contest in Cincinnati to an auto demolition derby in Texas. But he's not so hot on tennis.

"People play and talk about tennis," says Arledge, president of ABC Sports, "but most people would rather watch wrestling." CBS contends that Evel Knievel's attempt to jump 14 buses on a motorcycle recently—live—had the highest rating of anything that it has shown.

The biggest of all single sports attractions is the Super Bowl—a one-day shootout for the NFL championship—although it can be topped, as this year, by an exciting seventh game of the World Series.

By comparison, commercial time for regular-season NFL games runs $48,000 per minute early in the season, $68,000 later, up to $92,000 for the divisional playoffs. League title games can demand $110,000.

These revenues must cover, for instance, the $16 million which NBC pays the NFL to show 86 games, plus three preseason and three playoff games. ABC pays $11.5 for Monday Night Football.

Such high revenues give the networks no special privileges in arranging the games, contrary to general belief. "We make the schedule," says Jim Kensil, Rozelle's top aide. "The schedule is made on the basis of how best to display the product to millions."

The networks are allowed breaks in the action to help hawk sponsors' products—interruptions which once antagonized but no longer antagonize viewers. Most times, these commercial breaks are slipped in during legitimate timeouts.

The blackout restrictions are imposed by Congress. The NFL prefers local blackouts, but Congress insists there can be no blackout if the game is a sellout 72 hours before game time. The NFL insists this erodes fan interest.

TV packages for lesser and special events vary. For instance, the U. S. Open Tennis Championships at Forest Hills, N.Y. were sold to CBS for $1 million over three years, with right of refusal on Davis Cup matches.

CBS paid $300,000 for the Jimmy Connors-Rod Laver match at Las Vegas last February but had to double the ante for Connors' challenge match against John Newcombe, charging proportionately for commercials—$30,000 and $60,000 per minute.

Advertising revenues for sports network TV soared over $300 million this year and may soar over $400 million in 1976, a big year with the Winter and Summer Olympics (ABC, $62 million total, already sold out).

Despite the economy, the networks still manage to extract advertising dollars for sports events. The sales thrust is aimed entirely at the men—automobiles, batteries, razors and the like. Companies such as Ford and Sears earmark between $15 and $20 million per year to catch the man's eye, particularly on weekends and Monday nights.

Trade reports are that the sports advertising dollar is holding firm. "It's the best way to reach men. We will sustain what we have," said Ham Shirmer of Chrysler-Dodge.

The gauge-watchers, such as A.C. Nielsen and others, use intricate figures to determine the popularity of TV programming. On their scale, the Super Bowl is tops with a rating in the 40s, compared with the World Series 39.8, the Muhammad Ali-Ron Lyle fight 27.8, Monday Night Football between 19 and 21, the Kentucky Derby 18.9, Masters Golf 17, regular NFL football 13-14, weekly golf tournaments 9 and tennis 5.

Commercial time sells for $48,000 a minute

These figures seem small— but when properly multiplied they add up to millions of viewers and millions of dollars for the pitcher with the high, fast ball and quarterbacks who can throw touchdowns.

McAdoo pumps in 50

By The Associated Press

The Cleveland Coliseum never is the same after a visit by Bob McAdoo.

The Buffalo Braves' star seems to play some of his best games there. Last year, he had 49 points one night to break the Coliseum scoring record—and Thursday night, he bettered that mark by one.

"I guess it's just playing against Jim Chones. We're real good friends," McAdoo said after his 50 points powered the Braves to a 118-115 overtime National Basketball Association victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers.

As far as Buffalo was concerned, it was a good night for McAdoo to put on a recordbreaking performance. The Braves had to wipe out a 23-point deficit to win the pulsating contest.

"There's always a time in an NBA game when you have a chance to win," said Buffalo Coach Jack Ramsay. "It's easy to give up when you're 20 points behind and figure you'll get 'em the next night.

"But this team kept plugging. It's trite but true. That's the stuff that championship teams are made of."

In the night's only other NBA game, the Washington Bullets whipped the ATlanta Hawks 105-96. In the American Basketball Association, the Indiana Pacers stopped the Denver Nuggets 117-112.

McAdoo had a chance to win the game in Cleveland with one second left to play in regulation time, but his 22-footer missed, and the game went into overtime. McAdoo, Garfield Heard and Randy Smith contributed four points each to put the Braves safely in front in the overtime period.

Jim Chones dunked a basket midway through the third quarter to boost Cleveland to a 79-56 lead, but the Braves closed to a 14-point margin at 86-72 by the end of the quarter. The Braves' hot streak continued into the fourth, when they outscored the Cavaliers 15-4 in a four-minute span, Dick Gibbs leading the way with six points.

Cleveland's Campy Russell came off the bench in the last six minutes and scored six points to help keep the Cavaliers in the game as Buffalo tied it up in the closing minutes.

Bullets 105, Hawks 96

Phil Chenier scored six of his game-high 22 points in the final three minutes to power Washington past Atlanta, taking first place in the NBA's Central Division from the Hawks.

Chenier sank two long jumpers and then scored on a fast break as the Bullets broke open a tight game in the closing minutes for their seventh victory in 11 starts. Atlanta trailed throughout the contest, but cut a 76-67 deficit to 90-88 with four minutes remaining. The Bullets then regrouped and scored 15 of the game's last 23 points.

Pacers 117, Nuggets 112

Indiana's Billy Knight scored 36 points, including 12 in the fourth quarter, as the Pacers choked off a Denver rally. The victory, Indiana's fifth straight, moved the Pacers one-half game ahead of the Nuggets in first place in the ABA West.

Home ice tilts right for Sabres in Buffalo

By Associated Press

Until someone asks for a surveyor's inquiry, the rest of the National Hockey League can maintain its belief that the ice surface is tilted to the right at Buffalo's Memorial Auditorium.

Thursday night, for example, right wings Rene Robert and Danny Gare combined for four of the Sabres' goals in a lopsided 7-2 victory over the Detroit Red Wings.

In Gare's case, there is more than one imbalance. Goal scoring on his line, for instance: center Don Luce has just four and left wing Craig Ramsay has five, while Gare has 15. Then there's the most surprising disparity of all: the 21-year-old second-year pro has just four assists when the figures are almost always the reverse.

None of the three forwards is bothered by the uneven statistics. "Luce and Ramsay are having tough luck with their shooting and I'm cashing in on their rebounds," explains Gare. "Luce and Ramsay are very good in the corners. They set me up. They'll start scoring soon and I'll get some assists."

"We're certainly glad to see Danny score," added Luce, since the rest of the line has had trouble finding the net. "It's getting frustrating that the puck won't go in for Craig and me."

It's going in for almost everybody else on the team, which has scored 90 goals in 19 games. Even Brian Spencer scored a pair—within 28 seconds—Thursday night, raising his season's total to three.

The Red Wings could have conceded after Robert opened the scoring, taking into account another runaway Buffalo statistic: the Sabres have scored the first goal in 13 of their league-leading 15 triumphs this season.

Buffalo Coach Floyd Smith didn't agree with the one-sided theory, however — at least not as far as the Red Wings were concerned.

"I think," he said with a wink, "we caught Detroit a little flat."

In the other NHL games Thursday night, the New York Islanders tied the Boston Bruins 2-2 and the Philadelphia Flyers topped the California Seals 3-2.

Rick Martin scored the other goal for Buffalo, which won its 11th game at home, with one tie, in 13 games so far. Dan Maloney and Terry Harper tallied for Detroit.

Islanders 2, Bruins 2

New York goalie Billy Smith weathered a 41-shot Boston barrage with a spectacular performance and Lorne Henning scored his first two goals of the season—one of them shorthanded—as the Islanders twice battled back for the tie.

"I was tired after 35 shots," said Smith, "but I always seem to play well in Boston. It's like my home rink; I don't think I've ever had a bad game here."

Coach Al Arbour was more succinct. "The point belongs to Billy Smith," he said, although Henning certainly helped.

Flyers 3, Seals 2

Philadelphia Coach Fred Shero didn't seem overly impressed by the aggressive young Seals. "If we played the way they did, everybody would have gone home—including me," he said after second-period goals by Bobby Clarke and Gary Dornhoefer brought the Flyers from a 2-1 deficit.

Showcase for black grids

NEW YORK (AP) — Predominantly black colleges and universities, which have sent a plethora of football players to the pros in recent years but still feel some of their talent is being overlooked, announced Thursday the formation of the Freedom Football Classic.

The game, also called the Black College All American Football Classic, will be played Jan. 3 at Shea Stadium. It will basically feature seniors from teams in the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference and Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association against players from teams in the Southwestern Athletic Conference and the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. Seniors from independent black schools also will participate.

The MEAC and CIAA squad will be coached by John Merritt of Tennessee State, and the SWAC-SIAC team will be headed by Marino Casem of Alcorn A&M. Each team will consist of 35 players.

Proceeds of the game, sanctioned by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, will go to charity.

"We hope to hold the game annually," said Merritt, who was unable to attend a news conference because of the flu but spoke with the media via telephone from Nashville, Tenn. "We want to make it a real big thing and compete with the other major post-season bowl games and all-star games.

"There is a lot of talent among the black football schools, and this will be a good opportunity to give the players exposure. The pros will welcome the opportunity to see them."

Casem agreed. "This will be another good avenue to show our wares before a large crowd," he said. "It will be another event to add a little more glory, a little more prestige and a little more recognition for the black colleges.

Geiberger's 65 peps U.S. team

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Al Geiberger's seven-under-par 65 led the U.S. team to a one-stroke lead over Japan, 551-552 strokes, in the first round of the fifth annual U.S.-Japan golf match on the 6,830-yard, par 72 Ibaraki Kokusai Golf Club course.

Geiberger, who won the individual title in 1973, had eight birdies and one bogey in the 18-player competition to grab a one-stroke lead over young Japanese pro Norio Suzuki in the individual competition for the first prize money of $16,660.

Hale Irwin, winner of the 1975 Atlanta Classic and the Western Open, was in a third-place tie with World Cup player Kosaku Shimada and Toru Nakamura with a five-under-par 67s.

John Schroeder, who substituted for 1975 British Open champion Tom Watson, and World Cup player Takashi Murakami fired identical fiveunder-par 67s to tie for sixth place.

Other American scores were Tom Kite and Buddy Allin, 70, and Dave Hill, Doug Sanders and Jerry Heard, 71.

Each team plays 18 holes each day and the scores of the best eight over four rounds will decide the winner of the $15,000 prize. The losing team will get $6,000.

Playoff earnings double for players

NEW YORK (AP) — Since 1969, when the present league championships and World Series structure was instituted in major league baseball, playoff money has almost doubled for the winning and losing teams.

The latest payoffs, for the 1975 World Series between the Cincinnati Reds and the Boston Red Sox, were announced by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn Thursday, and they bear out that baseball's present playoff format is a financial bonus for the players.

The Reds, who beat the Pittsburgh Pirates for the National League title, then just edged the Red Sox by winning the seventh and final game in the ninth inning, received 32 full shares worth $19,060.46 each. The American League champion Red Sox handed out 34 full shares of $13,325.87 each for beating the Oakland A's and losing to the Reds.

In 1968, the winning share received by the Detroit Tigers was $10,936.66 while the losing St. Louis Cardinals picked up $7,078.71 for a full share. The highest winning check before baseball went to the divisional system came in 1963 when the Los Angeles Dodgers earned $12,794. The losing New York Yankees in 1963 picked up $7,874.32, the second highest losers' share prior to 1969.

All 25 eligible players on the Cincinnati and Boston squads received full shares this year. Boston infielder Denny Doyle and relief pitchers Jim Burton and Jim Willoughby joined the Red Sox roster after the season began but were awarded full shares.

Barnes admits hitting player

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Pro basketball star Marvin Barnes conceded in court Thursday that he struck former Providence College teammate Lawrence Ketvirtis, but with his fist, not a tire iron.

Barnes, a surprise witness, was called to the stand by Ketvirtis' attorney during the fourth day of a federal court trial on a $1.5 million damage suit against the American Basketball Association player.

Ketvirtis alleges that Barnes, who plays for the ABA's Spirits of St. Louis, struck him in the face with a tire iron in 1972 causing severe damage to the bone structure.

Barnes, a 6-foot-9 forward, testified that he hit Ketvirtis, who stands 6-foot-11, because he thought Ketvirtis was going to strike him.

"He came on as though to swing at me," Barnes said. "I didn't know what he was going to do."

Barnes said after being hit, Ketvirtis fell back into a partially open door striking his face. Barnes said he brought along a tire iron for self-defense but had earlier dropped it on the ground.

Barnes also testified about a collision with Ketvirtis during a practice game a few hours before the fight. Barnes said four of his teeth were loosened.

"He came down and hit me square in the mouth and knocked my lower teeth loose," Barnes testified. "He knocked two teeth flat back against my tongue and jarred two others loose."

"I think he deliberately wanted to hurt me," he said.

Patching cracks before painting necessary step

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

While everybody takes the time and trouble to fill in holes in walls before painting, many feel that it is a waste of time to repair small cracks. They figure the paint will completely cover the cracks. They are right up to a point. Cracks will seem to disappear after a wall has been painted — but it's only a question of time before they reappear.

A thin crack in plaster (often referred to as a hairline crack) can be repaired simply by wetting it thoroughly and pushing in patching plaster with a putty knife or a finger.

With a larger crack, there is a possibility that the patch will not stay in place. The opening, therefore, should be undercut. This consists of making the bottom part of the opening wider than the top, which locks in part of the new plaster under the old. This can be done with a putty knife or, even better if you have one, a beer can opener. As with any kind of plaster repair, the opening must be moistened completely before the patching begins. Also, be sure to remove all loose particles of the old plaster.

When the opening is quite large, it is better to apply the patching compound in two layers. Insert it in the opening to within a fraction of an inch of the surface. Allow it to dry for several hours or overnight, then add more compound and smooth it hard with a putty knife. By doing it this way, you will prevent shrinkage, which sometimes occurs when a large opening is filled at one time.

Professional painters will often paint right over a patch, but it is preferable, especially for the do-it-yourselfer, to wait a day or two. The patch is then primed with a sealer or a dab of paint before either repainting the entire wall or matching the patch with the rest of the wall.

Cracks in plaster walls occur for a number of reasons, the most common of which are settling of the house and vibration. If you suspect that settling is the cause, then it is wise to wait for a period of time to be sure there is no further spreading of the cracks. One way to determine this is to the mark the ends of the cracks with tiny chalk or pencil marks. When the cracks have not moved beyond the check marks for a period of weeks, you can go ahead with the repair job.

Sometimes, a home owner is plagued with cracks for as long as he lives in the house. This is the case when a home is located near a street or highway where heavy trucks cause the structure to vibrate. There isn't too much the owner can do about this except to make up his mind that he'll have to do periodic patching — or ignore the cracks — or move.

Camellias: colorful during any season

The fact that our climate is so similar to their native habitat — East and Southeast Asia — is only one reason why camellias have their roots so firmly implanted in California. Their exquisite individual blooms — with striking colorations and variegations are more likely reasons why camellias are so popular throughout the Golden State.

Camellias are not just springtime color barers. Many are in full bloom by the time the first football games are aired — and others provide color into May — when baseball players are hitting their first home runs.

The single and double flowers of the fall-blooming sasanquas radiate in the garden. Their willowly growth habit makes them suitable for planting in many garden spots. The foilage of sasanquas is smaller than that of their later-blooming cousins, which makes them of special interest in the garden.

Throughout most of the state, the earliest Japonica Camellias begin to bloom before Thanksgiving. The magnificient flower forms featured by Japonicas include formal doubles, big, peony-type blooms and breathtaking single blossoms. To further delight gardeners, these are divided into bloom categories. There are Japonicas that bloom early, mid-season, or that flower late.

Blooming from the New Year through May in many parts of the state are the Reticulatas. They produce some of the largest and most spectacular of all camellias.

Camellias should be planted in a soil that has good drainage yet retains moisture, states the California Association of Nurserymen. To condition most soils for planting camellias, spread about a three-inch layer of peat moss or other organic matter over the planting bed and mix well with the native soil. When planting camellias make sure the root ball is slightly above the surface of the soil. Camellias may easily be grown in containers too. As a matter of fact, it's hard to find a better patio plant.

Here's the Answer

Q. — The windows in our living room sweat profusely at certain times. When it is especially bad, the water runs down the glass to the window sills. Would storm windows help? Also, I have been told that keeping the drapes closed would keep the warm air from reaching the window panes and thus prevent the condensation. Is this so?

A. — Would storm windows help? Yes! Would closed drapes help? No! But there have been such an unusual number of questions recently about condensation on the interior surfaces of windows that some further explanation is in order so that readers will better understand the whys and wherefores of the subject. Condensation is caused when warm, moist air settles on a cool surface. Thus, it occurs in a house where there is an excessive amount of humidity and one or more cool surfaces on which to settle.

Visible condensation is usually first noticed on window glass but may also be discovered on cold surfaces of closets, unheated bedroom walls and ceilings and in attic spaces on rafters or cold boards near the cornice area. The principle is always the same: warm, moisture-laden air condenses on a cool surface; that is, it turns from a vapor into a liquid.

When there is a storm window or one of the many types of double glass with a space between, the inside window does not become as cold, always providing that the storm window or double glass is working the way it should. Unfortunately, while condensation on the inside window does not take place, the problem of the excessive humidity remains.

Gardeners check list

Azaleas and camellias are to be found in bloom, in local nurseries, this month, and November is a prime planting month.

Spring-blooming bulbs are still available in many nurseries, especially daffodils, hyacinths and tulips. Hurry to plant them so you won't miss out on their colorful garden show early next year.

Leftover Seeds

If you do save some, plant them more abundantly than normally because fewer of them are likely to germinate than fresh seeds.

Some seeds keep their germination power better than others. You can test germination by putting a half dozen or so seeds in a moistened paper towel and, keeping the paper damp, checking the germination rate.

Upland chamber to learn about benefits of consumer regulations

The 7:30 a.m. meeting will be at the Arbor Restaurant, Upland. Reservations for the $3 buffet may be made at the chamber office.

Farr has had five years' experience in dealing with consumer protection and rights. He will explain how the consumer regulations protect both the businessman and the customer.

Upland residents are invited to the chamber's monthly community mixer on Dec. 11. Host for the evening will be C. Richard Hield, president of Upland Savings and Loan Association. The association office will be open from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Music, refreshments and prizes are planned.

Holiday idea

Extend your Thanksgiving planning to include preparing your floors for the additional traffic holidays bring, advises Leslie Wood, consumer information specialist for Johnson Wax. "A self-polishing floor wax like Glo-Coat applied ahead of time will protect floors against heel marks and make it easier to clean up those turkey and cranberry sauce spills no Thanksgiving would be complete without.

Easy time

Experimenting with new recipes or unfamiliar foods is risky. Stick to the dishes you are sure of. Avoid foods that require a lot of last-minute attention or that won't "hold up" beyond the planned serving time. If possible, include foods that can be either partially or entirely prepared in advance and refrigerated or frozen. Casseroles, pies, piecrusts, frozen desserts, breads, rolls and fruitcakes all fall into this category and save a lot of time.

'Little House' program brings tourists to setting

WALNUT GROVE, Minn. (AP) — Once there was a trickle of visitors each year. Then the number grew to hundreds. Now, the total for 1975 is approaching 10,000.

Walnut Grove, near the banks of Plum Creek, has become a mecca for the cult of Laura Ingalls Wilder. With the introduction last year of the network television series "Little House on the Prairie," this Redwood County town of 800 people has become a major Minnesota tourist attraction.

In response to the swelling flood of visitors, the town last winter organized the Laura Ingalls Wilder Committee, which opened an information center and museum in a former filling station near the Ingalls' homestead site.

"People come by the busload," said Marynard Nelson, chairman of the Wilder committee. "This year there have been people from 48 of the 50 states, including Alaska and Hawaii, and from 15 foreign countries."

"I'll tell you," says Mrs. Harold Gordon, on whose farm the Ingalls attractions are located, "there were so many people this last summer that the grass was nearly beat out with the drought and then with so many comings and goings."

Chief attractions are Plum Creek, the depression in the creek bank where the Ingalls' dugout was located, the spring from which the pioneer family took its water and a big rock where their children played.

Laura Ingalls Wilder was the daughter of a pioneer family that homesteaded in Wisconsin, then Minnesota and Iowa, and settled near DeSmet, S.D.

In her later years, Mrs. Wilder wrote biographical books relating experiences of her frontier childhood, intended for children. The books are generally considered classics of their kind.

"There really are two types of people coming here," szid Everett Lantz, publisher-editor of the Walnut Grove Tribune. "There are the ones I call 'book people.' They knew of Laura Ingalls Wilder long before the television series. And they just love her.

"I call the other people 'television people,' who got excited about Mrs. Wilder since the series began."

He said the tourists have established Walnut Grove as one of Minnesota's few authentic literary attractions. Lantz said it rivals Sauk Centre, the site of Sinclair Lewis' Main Street.

We usually think of water as an odorless and tasteless liquid. But drinking water, for example, often has a definite odor and taste.

Pure water is never found in nature because water picks up and dissolves tiny bits of mineral matter wherever it flows.

"Hard water" is water which has dissolved large amounts of certain minerals. Extra soap is needed for washing with hard water because the soap doesn't readily form soapsuds. The minerals also stick to the sides of pipes and boilers and form a hard, crustlike scale.

Water containing fewer minerals and in which soap will make good suds is called "soft water."

Here's wondertul news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

GM profit expected to rise

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors, which has staged the sharpest recovery among the nation's once-beleaguered auto companies, is expected to show a dramatic increase in thirdquarter earnings over a year ago, financial analysts predict.

However, investment counselors forecast an earnings decline for Ford Motor Co., and Chrysler Corp. is expected to finish in the red for a fifth consecutive period to push its losses since the summer of 1974 over the $300 million mark.

The Big Three auto makers report their financial results for the July-September period later this week.

Analysts predict industry leader GM will earn about $170 million in the quarter, a ninefold increase over its disastrous earnings of $16.7 million a year ago.

GM's third-quarter profits last year were the lowest for the period since World War II, with the exception of 1970, when the firm reported a loss due to a lengthy nationwide United Auto Workers union strike.

The company blamed its poor performance on a precipitous drop in sales — steepest in the industry — resulting from its emphasis on big cars at a time when the market was shifting rapidly to small models.

However, GM has responded nearly as rapidly this year by introducing a bevy of small cars, and its U.S. sales so far in 1975 are down just five per cent from last year. Industrywide, car sales are off 12 per cent.

Savings and Loans ask government guarantees

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The savings and loan people, who like to remind you how much they've done to finance the houses of America, feel they need some understanding and perhaps some aid.

They are deeply concerned, for example, that the typical American family no longer can afford to purchase the typical new single-family home. They are worried about the deep social implications of this.

More to the point, they are concerned about the decisions this thrusts upon them. Their business is lending money to finance home ownership, but their first responsibility is to protect their customers' savings.

Builders, however, seem unable to bring housing costs down. Attempts to do so have been frustrated by rising prices of land, labor and materials, and often by old-fashioned, restrictive building codes.

But there's another complicating factor: the American dream of a single-family home on its own green quarter-acre lives on. More than one financial institution was convinced it could change this aspiration, and failed.

That is, they tried to move young families into modern town house-style dwellings, but the young moderns interpreted modern to mean less.

They observed that town houses were connected, that they shared "party walls" and that above all, they were not distinctly separate houses on their own grassy plots.

The head of one savings and loan association relates how his company still owns a town house development in which it managed to reduce the price of a two-bedroom unit to about $20,000. There was little demand. It now rents, instead.

"Young couples still want the old-fashioned, single-family unit on its own plot," said the frustrated president of the association, which is situated in the Pacific Northwest. "They want what mom and dad had," he said.

Something has to give, he indicated, and you get the feeling that many other housing and finance people share that belief. Construction of new housing remains slow, interest rates remain relatively high, and prices are rising.

It's enough to ruin the fun here in this great convention city, where entertainment and business usually mix in a smooth cocktail. Some of the housing finance people here this week feel the blend is imperfect this year.

More than 8,000 delegates, spouses and exhibitors are gathered here for the 83rd annual convention of the U.S. League of Savings Associations, whose members provide more than half of all home mortgages.

The savings and loan people have made a proposal: "We will in good conscience be able to risk the savings of our customers to finance such housing if the government will help."

How? Through federal guarantees. They propose that investments by them in blighted areas be insured to 80 per cent by the federal government.

Yes, this is somewhat similar to the proposal made by New York City in seeking to work its way out of its financial predicament. Both the city and the associations feel federal power should be exercised.

The S&L members are happy to hear their proposal has been praised by some influential members of Congress, at least initially. But on other legislative matters they aren't quite happy.

Congress already has turned down their attempt to obtain variable rate mortgages, on which interest charges would rise or fall with market conditions rather than remain fixed for the 20-or 30-year life of the contract.

And some members of Congress have proposed eliminating distinctions that now exist between banks and savings and loan associations and even credit unions, resulting in among other things, changes in taxation and regulation.

These proposals also would destroy the interest rate differential S&Ls enjoy. Under federal law they are permitted to offer savers one-quarter per cent more interest than commercial banks, in order to encourage a flow of funds to housing.

War game

Chess was invented in India in the seventh cenutry A.D. as a war game to illustrate and rehearse proposed army movements for real engagements. Its name comes from the Indian "chaturanga" meaning "consisting of four divisions," the four kinds of troops in the traditional Indian army: infantry, cavalry, chairots and elephants, along with the Supreme Commander (King) and his Minister (changed by Italians to the Queen).

CUPERTINO (AP) — Five men were trapped in tons of wet cement when a roof at a shopping center under construction collapsed. But they were pulled free within minutes, and none was seriously injured, authorities said.

Les Sadler, 52, a construction inspector, heard one of the 100 four-by-four-inch support beams crack and begin to splinte Thursday afternoon at th new Vallco Fashion Cen ter just off Interstate 280.

About 1,200 tons of cement had been poured for the roof of a one-story specialty shop in the complex, and the last two-ton load had just been delivered.

After the first support beam cracked, the others collapsed, and the roof crashed down, witnesses said.

Sadler was knocked unconscious, and five other construction workers were trapped in a chest-high pile of the freshly poured cement, authorities said.
